Spend a Part of Your February 14 at the State Library with Ted Reinstein!

The title of his book, Wicked Pissed: New England's Most Famous Feuds, may not fit the theme of love and friendship that is so common around Valentine's Day but we definitely look forward to hearing Ted Reinstein at the State Library's next Author Talk.

Reinstein will surely delight his audience discussing his quirky and interesting book about our rivalries with each other. Whether it's food, politics or land, tough and proud New Englanders will be sure to find the stories entertaining as he walks us through hundreds of years of "debate" within our beloved New England region.

Please Come to the State Library, Room 341 State House

Tuesday, February 14 from Noon to 1 p.m. for the next installment of our Author Talk Series with Ted Reinstein on his book:

Wicked Pissed: New England's Most Famous Feuds
