

Foreign Workers and Students

The Department of Conservation and Recreation does not sponsor foreign workers whose temporary employment would require the employer to complete forms such as USCIS Form I-129 or to offer a contract. This would typically include foreign students not enrolled in a United States educational program. Foreign students studying in the United States with appropriate authorization and a social security card may apply for temporary or seasonal employment.