Executive Summary

2006 County Commitments

- There were 17,722 criminal commitments by the courts to a Massachusetts county facility (house of correction) during the calendar year 2006, representing an increase of six percent in the number of commitments from the 16,649 commitments in 2005.
- There were 16,725 males (94% of the total population) and 997 females (6% of the total population) committed to serve a criminal sentence in county facilities.
- In 2006, female new court commitments in county facilities decreased by 6%, from 1,059 in 2005 to 997 in 2006. It is important to note that not all county facilities house women. The decrease in 2006 represents a change in the trend of growth in the female population since 2000.
- The number of male commitments increased by 1,135, or 7%, from 15,590 in 2005 to 16,725 in 2006. This number represents the largest increase in male county commitments since 2000.
- The two counties with the highest number of commitments were Suffolk and Hampden. Sixteen percent of the county commitments were to Suffolk County and 15% were to Hampden County house of correction.
- Criminal New Court Commitments to Essex County experienced an increase of 54%, from 1,402 in 2005 to 2,157 in 2006. This was the largest increase by far when compared with the other counties. During this same time period, Barnstable County exhibited a 31% decrease in commitments, 524 to 361, representing the largest decline in number of commitments of all the counties.
- The largest proportion of county commitments for males was from Suffolk and Worcester District Courts (14%). The next highest proportion of commitments for males was from Essex and Hampden (12%); Bristol and Middlesex (10%) District Courts. Seven percent of males were committed from a Superior Court. For females, the largest proportion of commitments was from Hampden District Court (25%), followed by Suffolk and Bristol (23%) District Courts. Ten percent of females were committed from a Superior Court.
- The largest racial/ethnic group represented was Caucasian (56%), followed by African American (22%) and Hispanic (20%).
- The median age of inmates committed to county facilities during 2006 was 31 years for both males and females. The mean (average) age for males was 32 years, and 33 years for females. Age at commitment ranged from 17 to 80 years.
- Age at commitment varied by gender, with females being slightly older than males. For females, 21% were younger than 25 years at time of commitment compared with 29% of males.
- Almost half of the population (45%) had a self-reported educational level of 11th grade or less, excluding those where education was not reported. This was similar for both males and females.
- Three fourths of prisoners reported their marital status as single, excluding those where marital status was not reported.

- Data reported by inmates about their last residence prior to commitment showed that males were most likely to come from Suffolk (16%), Worcester (13%), Hampden (13%) and Essex (11%) counties. The majority of females reported a last address in Hampden (26%), Bristol (20%) and Suffolk (17%) Counties, again it is important to note that not all county facilities house women.
- Within Massachusetts, the most common, self-reported, last address for females was Springfield (17%) and Boston (16%). For males the order of the top two were reversed: Boston (15%) and Springfield (9%).
- The majority of county commitments were for non-violent offenses (Property, Drug and 'Other'). Offense category differed by gender. Males were committed for offenses in the 'Other' (37%), Property (21%), Drug (21%), Person (19%), and Sex (2%) categories. In comparison, female commitments were for Property (30%), Other (28%), Drug (27%) and Person (16%) offenses. There were no commitments of females for Sex offenses.
- The median sentence length for both males and females was 6 months, excluding sentences in lieu of payment of fine.
- Five percent of female and four percent of male commitments were incarcerated in lieu of payment of fine. This represented an increase of 61% from 2005 commitments and 101% from 2002.
- The majority of commitments, 57%, were serving a sentence of six months or less. Twenty-three percent were incarcerated with a sentence of seven months through one year; 13% for a sentence of thirteen months through two years and three percent were sentenced to serve over two years. Four percent of commitments were commitment in lieu of payment of a fine.

Introduction

This report provides a statistical description of offenders committed to Massachusetts county facilities (houses of correction) during 2006. Offenders are described in terms of commitment institution, committing court, offense, sentence length, sentence type (weekend and jail sentences), gender, age, race, marital status, education, place of birth, and residence. Trends in court commitments to the county correctional system over the past five years are also presented.

All new court commitments and those individuals who began serving a new criminal sentence during the year are included in this report. If an individual was committed more than once during 2006, each court commitment for that individual is counted separately. Information for offenders committed to the Massachusetts Department of Correction (state facilities) is not included in this report. It is important to note that not all county facilities house females. Some females serving a county sentence are transferred or committed directly to the Massachusetts State Correctional Institution – Framingham. Females at state facilities are not included in this report.

The statistical tables were derived from information submitted by each county facility to the Research and Planning Division of the Massachusetts Department of Correction (DOC). A glossary of terms is provided at the end of this report to reference definitions of some terms used.

Specific information about 54 inmates committed to Essex County in 2004, was unavailable due to their database conversion in December 2004. Consequently, tables in this report referring to 2004 figures exclude 54 inmates committed to Essex County where no descriptive information was available, except for Table 23, “Committing Institution 2002 to 2006” (p. 23).

Due to computer conversions, the commitment records for Suffolk County were limited for the period January through April 2000. In an effort to maintain data constancy, the Suffolk County commitments from May to December 2000 were pro rated to the entire 12-month calendar year. In addition to total number of commitments, the characteristics of the committed inmates were also pro rated for the same period.

There are fourteen counties in Massachusetts. All counties, except for Nantucket County, have at least one county correctional facility administered by the county Sheriff. These facilities usually contain a jail for pre-trial detainees and a house of correction for sentenced inmates. Suffolk County has a separate facility for its jail (Nashua Street) and its house of correction (South Bay). Middlesex County has two facilities, a combined jail and house of correction in Billerica and a jail in Cambridge.

Several counties have specialized facilities for sentenced offenders including Step Down programs and Community Correction Centers. Offenders are not committed directly to these facilities but are transferred from another correctional facility. As this report covers county correctional facility commitments from courts, offenders who transfer to a program are counted upon their commitment to the county facility, and not upon subsequent transfer to the correctional program or center.

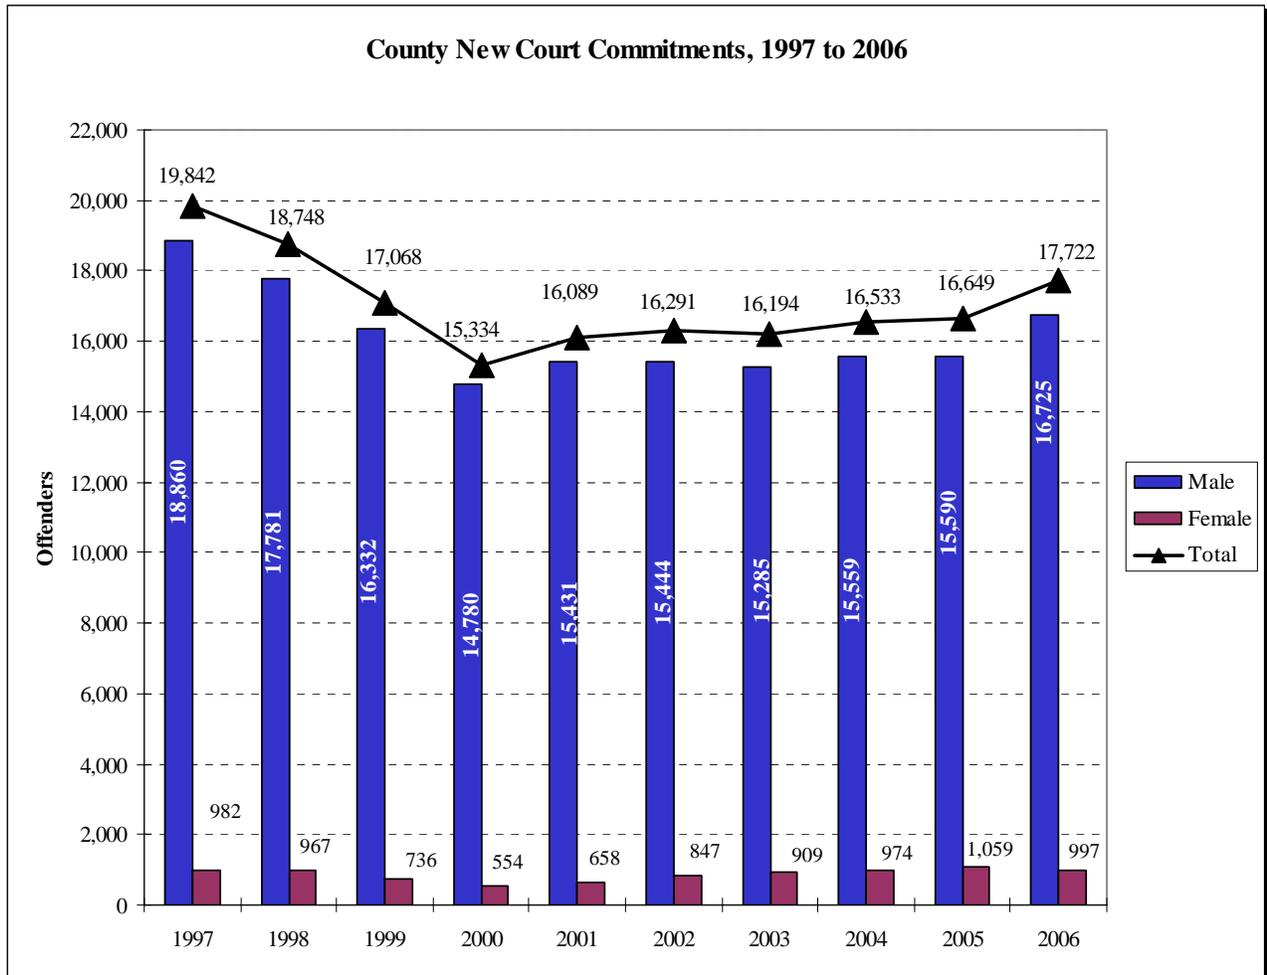

This report has been organized into three sections. The first section describes the demographic characteristics of the 2006 new court commitments. The second section depicts information about criminal offenses for the population. The third section addresses data regarding sentencing, such as court from which committed, type of sentence, and sentence length.

Please note that due to rounding, percentages in the tables may not add to 100%. In the tables, “Last Grade Completed” (p.8) and “Marital Status” (p.9) there are a high number of missing cases (noted as “Not Reported”); consequently results should be interpreted with caution.

Demographic Characteristics of County
New Court Commitments in 2006

During the past ten years, the number of county commitments decreased 11% from 19,842 in 1997 to 17,722 in 2006. Female commitments decreased from 1997 to 2000, followed by an increase for five years and then a decrease in 2006, with a ten-year high of 1,059 in 2005. Over the past ten years, male commitments decreased from 18,860 in 1997 to a ten-year low of 14,780 in 2000, followed by an increase for five years to 16,725 in 2006.

Figure 1

For 2004, specific data on 54 Essex County House of Correction inmates are excluded from this table because it was unavailable.

Female commitments increased from 847 commitments in 2002 to 1,059 commitments in 2005, then in 2006 decreased six percent to 997 commitments. Even with the decrease in 2006, female commitments have increased by 18% over this five-year period. Male commitments decreased slightly between 2002 and 2003, followed by a three-year increase, to a five-year high of 16,725 commitments.

In 2006, the majority of female commitments (63%) reported a race/ethnicity of Caucasian. Twenty-two percent of female commitments reported their race/ethnicity as African American, followed by 13% Hispanic. In a similar trend, the majority of male commitments (56%) reported a race/ethnicity of Caucasian, followed by 22% African American and 20% Hispanic.

The age distribution of inmates committed to county facilities has changed over the last five years. The largest increase was for commitments in the 40-64 year age range. The number of commitments in this category increased 31% from 3,642 in 2002 to 4,754 in 2006. In the age range of 30 to 39 years old, the number of commitments decreased six percent over the last five years, from 5,071 in 2002 to 4,758 in 2006. In 2002, the 30 to 39 year old category was the most prevalent, followed by the 20 to 24 year group, while in 2006, the second largest age category shifted to the 40-64 year age category.

Age at commitment:

The median age was 31 years (for both females and males).

The mean (average) age was 32 years for males.

The mean (average) age was 33 years for females.

Age at commitment - Ranges:

Females - 17 years to 60 years.

Males - 17 years to 80 years.

Excluding information that was not reported, the educational level (self-reported) shows that the majority of the population (45%) had an educational level of 11th grade or less. Forty percent of the population received a High School Diploma or GED and 11% reported some post-secondary education. Eight percent of the population did not report education level, and as such, this data should be interpreted with caution.

Current Offense

Over the past five years, commitments increased in four of the five categories. Other offenses increased 17% from 5,487 commitments in 2002 to a five-year high of 6,395 commitments in 2006. Property offenses increased nine percent from 3,519 in 2002 to 3,819 in 2006 with a five-year high of 3,832. In 2003, Drug offenses decreased slightly from 2002 then increased steadily to a five-year high of 3,720 commitments in 2006, an increase overall of 18% from 2002 to 2006. Commitments for Sex offenses decreased from 2002 to 2003 and increased each year through 2006 to a five year high of 390 in 2006. This represented a 16% increase over the period. Crimes Against the Person have decreased from 3,785 in 2002 to 3,398 in 2006 with a five-year low of 3,230 in 2005. This represents a 10% decrease from 2002 to 2006.

Sentencing and Court Information

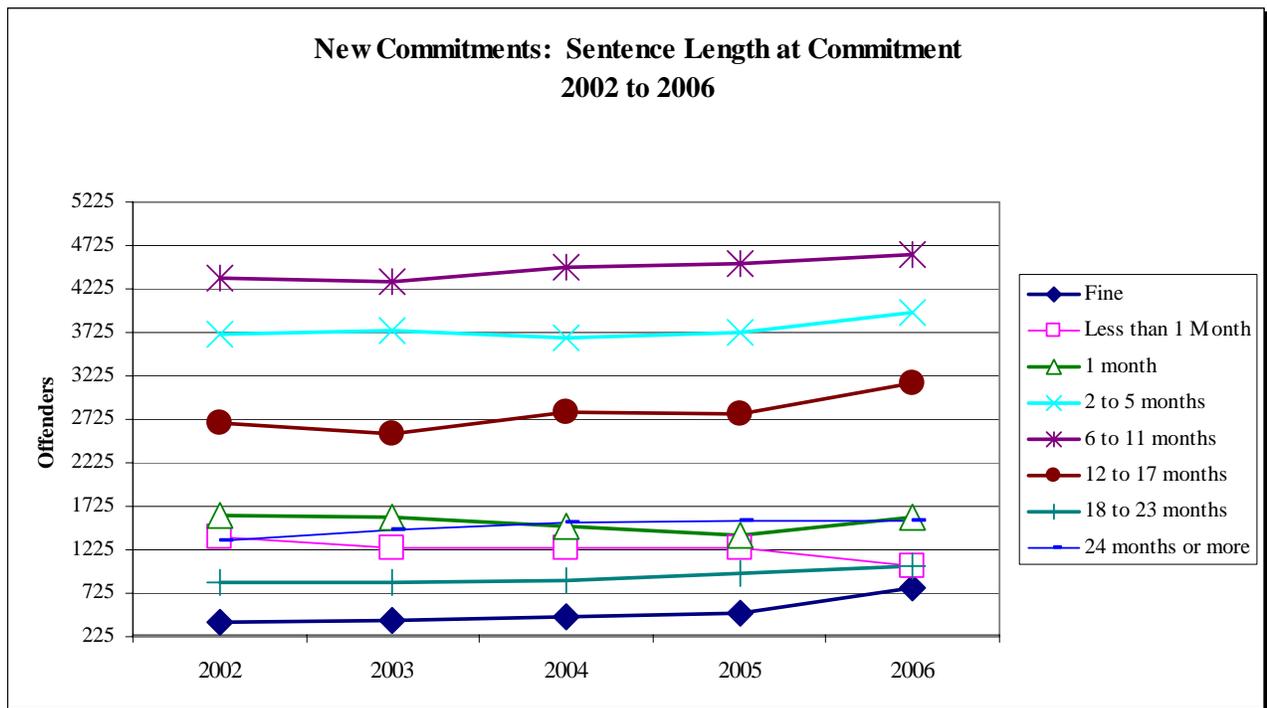

Over the past five years, the number of commitments in lieu of payment of fine has doubled from 391 in 2002 to 786 in 2006. The number of commitments for sentences of less than one month decreased by 24% and one month sentences decreased by two percent. Commitments in the categories of 2 to 5 months and 6 to 11 months each showed increases equal to or less than the increase in the total number of commitments (9%). In contrast, commitments in the longer ranges 12 to 17 months, 18 to 23 months and 24 months or more showed disproportionately higher increases in the number of commitments since 2002, 17%, 24% and 18%, respectively. Since 2005, however, the largest single increase in commitments were Fine (61%) and sentences of one month (14%).

Calculating the %ADP Capacity (Average Daily Population) is achieved by dividing the number of prisoners actually incarcerated in an institution by the Design (rated) capacity of that institution, or the number of inmates planned for that facility;

$\frac{\text{Average daily population}}{\text{Design (rated) capacity}}$

%Average Daily Capacity =

*Based on the inmate count each week for the period January 3 – December 26, 2006.

Glossary

ADP	Average Daily Population
Design Capacity	Population capacity each institution was designed to hold.
Current Offense	Inmates may be incarcerated for multiple offenses. The offense reported is that associated with the longest maximum sentence. Offense labels can be found in the Appendix and are listed in alphabetical order by offense category.
DOC (or MA DOC)	Massachusetts Department of Correction.
Race/Ethnicity	Other category includes a small number of cases each year where race/ethnicity is unknown. It is likely that a large number of inmates who report their race as 'other' may belong in the Hispanic category, however that category has been phased out as an option for race due to a change in federal law. Hispanic is available as an Ethnicity, but sometimes this information is not reported.
Marital Status	The categories "Common Law", "Cohabitant", and "Life Partner" are combined into the category labeled "Common Law" for this report.
Mean	The sum of the values of all the observations in a data set divided by the number of observations (average).
Median	The point in an array of data which has an equal number of observations above and below it.
Sentence Type
Fine	Offender was given a fine, but because he or she was unwilling or unable to pay the fine, is serving time in prison.
Simple	One sentence received for a single offense.
Weekend/Week Day	A one to two day sentence that is to be served during a weekend or during a specified day of the week.

Appendix

Offenses

Offenses are listed in alphabetical order by category. If more than one offense is combined into the same label or an offense label was shortened to fit in the report table, the offense is listed in this Appendix. Full offense labels for abbreviated offenses are printed in bold letters. Arithmetic signs have been used to abbreviate where relevant and represent the following: > (greater than), < (less than), + (and over).
