DECISION¹

Statement of the Case

- 1 Daniel Mazzolini (Mazzolini) filed a charge with the former Labor Relations
2 Commission (Commission)² on October 6, 2004 alleging that the City of Easthampton

¹ Pursuant to the Notice of Hearing, the Commonwealth Employment Relations Board (Board) has designated this case as one in which it shall issue a decision in the first instance.

² Pursuant to Chapter 145 of the Acts of 2007, the Division of Labor Relations "shall have all of the legal powers, authorities, responsibilities, duties, rights, and obligations previously conferred on the labor relations commission." The Commonwealth Employment Relations Board (Board) is the Division agency charged with deciding adjudicatory matters. References to the Board include the Commission.

NOTICE: This opinion is subject to formal revision before publication on the Division's website and/or the bound volume of Board decisions. Readers are requested to notify the Executive Secretary of any typographical or other formal errors so that corrections can be included.

1 (City) had engaged in prohibited practices within the meaning of Sections 10(a)(1), 2 10(a)(3) and 10(a)(4) of M.G.L. c.150E (the Law). Following an investigation, the 3 Commission issued a complaint of prohibited practice on September 13, 2006. The 4 complaint alleged that the City had violated Sections 10(a)(3) and, derivatively, 10(a)(1)
5 of the Law by terminating Mazzolini's employment with the City.³ The Commission 6 dismissed the allegations that the City violated Sections 10(a)(1), 10(a)(3), and 10(a)(4) 7 by various other actions. The City filed an answer to the complaint on September 28, 8 2006.

9 Susan Atwater, Esq., a duly-designated hearing officer of the Board, conducted 10 a hearing on the following dates: January 18, 2007, March 19, 2007, April 2, 2007, April 11 6, 2007, May 24, 2007, May 25, 2007, July 23, 2007, and July 24, 2007. At the 12 hearing, all parties had an opportunity to be heard, to examine witnesses, and to 13 introduce evidence. Mazzolini and the City filed post-hearing briefs on or about 14 February 14, 2008.⁴ The Hearing Officer issued Recommended Findings of Fact on ³ Mazzolini argues that the Board should also consider whether the City's decision to initiate two investigations into his conduct violated the Law even though the Board did not specifically plead that allegation in the complaint. Mazzolini correctly notes that, in some instances, the Board has considered and decided allegations outside the scope of the complaint that the parties fully litigated at the hearing. Town of Norwell, 18 MLC 1263, 1264 (1992). However, the former Commission found that the allegations that pertained to events occurring over six months before October 6, 2004 - the date that Mazzolini filed his charge - were untimely. Because the City initiated both investigations over six months prior to October 6, 2004, Mazzolini's allegations regarding those investigations are untimely. Moreover, Mazzolini did not request reconsideration of the allegations that the former Commission dismissed.

⁴ Following the close of the record, the parties transcribed the electronic recording of the hearing. The parties advised the Board by letter dated January 15, 2008 that the transcript that they provided to the Board would be the official record of the hearing.

1 December 23, 2008.

2 Findings of Fact⁵

3 The City challenged portions of the Hearing Officer's Recommended Findings of 4 Fact.⁶ After reviewing those challenges and the record, we adopt the Hearing Officer's 5 Recommended Findings of Fact, as modified where noted, and summarize the relevant 6 portions below.

7 The City's Sexual Harassment Policy

8 At the time of the events in this case, the City maintained a Sexual Harassment 9 Policy (the Policy). The goal of the Policy was to promote a workplace that was free of 10 sexual harassment. The Policy contained a lengthy definition of sexual harassment, 11 including the following:

12 Sexual epithets, jokes, written or oral references to sexual conduct; gossip 13 regarding one's sex life; comments on an individual's body; comments 14 about an individual's sexual activity, deficiencies or prowess; displaying 15 sexually suggestive objects, pictures, cartoons....

16
17 The Policy stated that the City would promptly investigate allegations of sexual 18 harassment in a fair and expeditious manner and described the investigation as follows:

19 The investigation will be conducted in such a way as to maintain 20 confidentiality to the extent practicable under the circumstances. Our 21 investigation will include a private interview with the person filing the 22 complaint and with witnesses. We will also interview the person alleged to 23 have committed sexual harassment. When we have completed our 24 investigation, we will, to the extent appropriate, inform the person filing the 25 complaint and the person alleged to have committed the conduct of the 26 results of that investigation.
27

⁵ The Board's jurisdiction is not contested.

⁶ Mazzolini did not file any challenges to the Hearing Officer's Recommended Findings of Fact.

1 The Policy further stated that, where it was determined that inappropriate conduct has 2 occurred, the City would act promptly to eliminate the conduct and impose such 3 corrective action as is necessary, including disciplinary action where appropriate.
 4 Neither this Policy, nor any other City policy, prohibits general harassment.

5 The Contractual Grievance and Arbitration Procedure

6 The collective bargaining agreement between the Union and the City that was in 7 effect at the time of the events in question contained the following grievance and 8 arbitration procedure:

9 Article XVIII

10 A grievance is a dispute that may from time to time arise between the 11 parties which deals with the meaning or interpretation of this agreement, 12 and the parties agree that the following procedure for resolving said 13 dispute shall be the sole remedy available to the parties: 14

15 Step 1 – Any aggrieved employee shall take up the grievance or dispute, 16 orally or in writing, with the supervisor in direct command within ten (10) 17 days of the date of the grievance or his/her knowledge of its occurrence.
 18 The supervisor shall attempt to adjust the matter and shall respond to the 19 employee, in writing, within three (3) working days. If the employee fails 20 to exercise this first step within said ten (10) days, he/she shall be 21 deemed to have waived all rights and remedies to and for said grievance.
 22

23 Step 2 – If the grievance has not been settled, the Union Steward and the 24 employee shall take up the grievance orally or in writing with [the] 25 supervisor within ten (10) days of Step 1 impasse. The supervisor shall 26 again attempt to adjust the matter and shall respond to the Union Steward 27 within five (5) days.
 28

29 Step 3 - If the grievance is still not settled, it shall be presented in writing 30 by the Union Steward on behalf of the aggrieved party to the Director of 31 Public Works within three (3) days of Step 2 impasse and said Director of 32 Public Works shall have five (5) days to respond to the Union Steward, 33 which response shall be in writing.
 34

35 Step 4 – If the grievance still remains unadjusted, it shall be jointly 36 presented to the Mayor in writing within ten (10) days at which time the 1 Mayor will hear the facts and circumstances surrounding the dispute and 2 either decide the issue or reserve said decision for a period of not more 3 than thirty (30) days.

4
5 Step 5 – If the decision of the Mayor does not settle the issue in dispute, 6 the UNION may, within thirty (30) days after the decision of the Mayor 7 take the case to arbitration...
8 (emphasis in original.)

10 The Department of Public Works

11 At the time of the events in this case, the City's Department of Public Works 12 (DPW) encompassed the following departments: Administration, Engineering, Highway, 13 Sewer, Water Treatment Plant, Waste Water Treatment Plant (WWTP) and Motor 14 Repair. Joseph Pipczynski (Pipczynski) was the Director of the DPW, and he 15 supervised the Office Manager, the City Engineer, the Highway Supervisors, the 16 Supervisor of Utilities and the Waste Water Treatment Plan Supervisor. At all relevant 17 times, David Gagnon (Gagnon) was the Waste Water Treatment Plant Supervisor, and 18 Brian Geraghty (Geraghty), the Head Operator, reported directly to Gagnon. Sally 19 Peters (Peters), the only female employee in the WWTP, held the position of Industrial 20 Pre-treatment Coordinator, and Steven Dushane (Dushane) held the position of Pump 21 Station Operator. The WWTP also employed operators, mechanics and an attendant.

22 The Physical Layout of the Waste Water Treatment Plant

23 The WWTP treats waste water from residential homes and industrial facilities. It 24 houses machinery, including pumps, presses, and tanks; a mechanical/instrumentation 25 room; a locker room; a break room where employees take breaks and eat lunch; and an 26 office with three desks: one for Gagnon, one for Geraghty, and one for Peters. The 27 mechanical room is in the front of the building, the office is in the back of the building,

1 and the break room is seven or eight steps from the office.

2 Mazzolini's Employment with the City

3 The City hired Mazzolini as a waste water treatment plant attendant on October 4 8, 2002. Mazzolini reported directly to Geraghty. Mazzolini worked Monday through 5 Friday cleaning the WWTP and performing other tasks. Mazzolini performed certain 6 duties at the Sewer Plant and the Water Treatment Plant, and occasionally 7 accompanied Dushane to the City's pump stations, but he spent the majority of his time 8 at the WWTP. On January 6, 2003, Mazzolini received the City's Sexual Harassment 9 Policy and signed a statement indicating that he understood the policy and his 10 responsibility not to engage in behaviors that would constitute sexual harassment.

11 At some point early in Mazzolini's employment, Mazzolini, Gagnon, and Peters 12 were sitting at the table in the break room with other WWTP employees. The 13 conversation turned to Mazzolini's former work experience, and Mazzolini indicated that 14 he had performed maintenance work at an apartment complex called the Meadowbrook 15 Apartments (Meadowbrook). Mazzolini said that he had known women at 16 Meadowbrook, prompting another employee to ask if Mazzolini had known the women 17 in the "Biblical sense." Mazzolini responded that he had "done it doggie-style" with 18 women at Meadowbrook.⁷ In response to Mazzolini's statement, Peters stated: "Dan, 19 that's gross. I don't want to hear that kind of stuff." Gagnon told Peters to "deal with it."

⁷ At the hearing, Mazzolini denied making the statement attributed to him regarding the women at Meadowbrook and further denied having made any statements of a sexual nature during his employment at the WWTP. However, the Hearing Officer did not credit his testimony on these points, and Mazzolini has not challenged the Hearing Officer's credibility determination.

1 The conversation and the break ended at that point.⁸

2 A short time after the conversation regarding the women at Meadowbrook, 3 Mazzolini and Gagnon had a conversation at the WWTP in Peters's presence.
4 Mazzolini told Gagnon that he had met a woman at a bar on a previous evening and 5 that Mazzolini and the woman subsequently engaged in sexual relations at Mazzolini's 6 home. Mazzolini told Gagnon that while they were having sexual relations, the 7 headboard of the bed kept hitting the wall. Mazzolini and Gagnon discussed this 8 scenario at subsequent times in Peters's presence.

9 In February of 2003, Peters traveled to a City meeting in a DPW truck with 10 Mazzolini and Geraghty to discuss mandatory furloughs for City employees. During the 11 ride, Mazzolini stated that he had a new girlfriend, and that he was too heavy to be on 12 top of her. Geraghty continued the conversation by suggesting that Mazzolini try 13 increasing his upper body strength and trying different sexual positions.

14 At some subsequent point, a conversation ensued about Dushane's dog, and 15 someone drew a picture on a chalkboard depicting the dog involved in sexual activity 16 with a person. Peters erased the drawing, and it was redrawn within minutes.⁹ During 17 this incident, Mazzolini made a comment within Dushane's earshot regarding the size of 18 the dog's reproductive organs.

19 On various occasions, Mazzolini sat in front of Gagnon's desk, which was in the 20 same room as Peters's desk, and he and Gagnon discussed Mazzolini's sexual ⁸ The record does not reflect the date of this conversation.

⁹ The record does not indicate who drew or re-drew the picture of the dog.

1 activities. Peters overheard some of these conversations, and they offended her.
2 Mazzolini also made many statements regarding sexual activity in Dushane's presence 3 that Dushane found offensive, like stating that he would like to f—k a particular person, 4 having sex "doggie-style", or using graphic terms to describe sexual activity. Mazzolini 5 made statements referencing sexual activity that Peters or Dushane found offensive on 6 a daily to weekly basis.¹⁰ Both Peters and Dushane told Mazzolini that they did not want 7 to hear statements of a sexual nature, but Mazzolini continued to make sexual 8 statements notwithstanding their complaints.

9 The "No Confidence" Vote

10 On April 23, 2003, the Union held a special meeting at which they voted to 11 declare "no confidence" in Pipczynski as the DPW Director. The Union communicated 12 the no confidence vote to Riggott and Pipczynski on May 5, 2003. When Pipczynski 13 learned about the vote, he became upset and stated loudly to certain employees words 14 to the effect of: "thanks for the no confidence - do you have confidence in me now?" He 15 also asked Mazzolini how Mazzolini voted. Mazzolini told Pipczynski that he voted "no 16 confidence" because everyone else did.

17 Mazzolini's Efforts to Transfer to a Different Job

18 At some point prior to June 19, 2003, the City posted the position of Craftsman in 19 the Sewer Division. Mazzolini was the only employee who signed the posting signaling

¹⁰ At some unspecified point, Mazzolini told Dushane that Dushane was in a cult, a statement that Dushane believed criticized his religion.

1 his intent to apply for the position. By letter dated June 19, 2003, Pipczynski temporarily 2 assigned Mazzolini to the Sewer Division for approximately one month to read meters.
3 Pipczynski stated in the letter that Mazzolini's work as a meter reader would be 4 evaluated at the end of the month.

5 After sending the June 19 letter to Mazzolini, Pipczynski decided to award the 6 vacant Craftsman position to another employee who was about to lose his position in 7 the Highway Department due to a lack of funding. Pipczynski notified Mazzolini on June 8 27, 2003 that Mazzolini would not receive the transfer. Pipczynski met with Mazzolini 9 and Gagnon on July 2, 2003 to discuss the vacant position. Pipczynski explained that 10 the job was being held open for an employee who would be laid off. On July 2, 2003, 11 the City reposted the Sewer position in order to give the Highway Department employee 12 an opportunity to bid on it. Mazzolini signed the posting again, but the City subsequently 13 awarded the position to the Highway Department employee.

14 On July 3, 2003, Mazzolini filed a grievance (1st grievance) over the City's failure 15 to appoint him to the Sewer position by delivering the grievance to Pipczynski in person 16 at Pipczynski's office. When Pipczynski received the grievance, he said: "You are a new 17 employee and you are already putting in a grievance? I am the one that decides who 18 gets a job around here. You are not going to get this job, and I will fight you everyway I 19 can." Pipczynski then stated: "What about what I hear about you talking about sex?"
20 When Mazzolini questioned the meaning of Pipczynski's statement, Pipczynski stated: 21 "Never mind. If you did it, stop. If you didn't do it, forget about it."

22 The following day, July 4, 2003, Pipczynski approached Mazzolini as Mazzolini

1 was emptying waste baskets. Pipczynski told Mazzolini again that Mazzolini was not 2 getting the job. Mazzolini questioned Pipczynski about the meaning of Pipczynski's 3 statements on July 3 regarding sex. Pipczynski told Mazzolini that he (Pipczynski) 4 would say whatever he wanted to say, and Pipczynski walked away. Pipczynski denied 5 the grievance by letter dated July 8, 2003.

6 At some point prior to July 10, 2003, Pipczynski asked Gagnon why the WWTP 7 employees were not wearing uniforms. On July 10, 2003, Gagnon provided a written 8 response that stated in pertinent part as follows:

9 This is in response to your letter concerning so called lack of uniforms of 10 several WWTP employees...

11 12 The reason I write this letter is that my employees and myself are very 13 disturbed about the following facts...In the past couple of weeks there 14 have been grievances by employees at the treatment plant and other 15 divisions against your rulings and the fact that a no confidence vote 16 because of elimination of Highway Supervisor (sic). You also reinforced 17 that feeling you upset about these grievance when you displayed your 18 feelings about a new employee filing a grievance (sic). This is the 19 employee you chasing in your car at the treatment plant just before you 20 wrote this letter (sic). As a union employee they have rights to grieve 21 without recourse. So, I believe that this letter you sent was not intended 22 for disciplinary action but for pay back. All the employees at the treatment 23 plan would like an apology and assurance that this will not occur in the 24 future.

25
26 By letter dated July 15, 2003, Mazzolini notified Mayor Michael Tauznick (Mayor) 27 of his 1st grievance.¹¹ In his letter, Mazzolini stated that he would make an appointment 28 with the Mayor's office to better explain the situation underlying the grievance. The 29 Mayor responded to Mazzolini's July 15 letter on August 29, 2003.¹² In his August 29, ¹¹ The record does not reflect the Union's role, if any, in this action.

¹² The Mayor misplaced the letter in his office during July and August.

1 2003 letter, the Mayor advised Mazzolini to notify the Mayor if Mazzolini still wished to 2 grieve Pipczynski's decision not to award him the Sewer position.

3 Peters's and Dushane's Complaints Regarding Mazzolini

4 Dushane was offended by Mazzolini's sexual comments and told Mazzolini that 5 he did not want to hear such statements. Dushane also told Geraghty and Gagnon that 6 he was sick of hearing Mazzolini's sexual statements. In response to Dushane's 7 complaints, Gagnon told Mazzolini not to talk "like that." Mazzolini ceased his 8 comments in Dushane's presence for a short period of time, but he subsequently 9 resumed making statements of a sexual nature. At various times, Peters voiced her 10 displeasure with the sexual conversations to Gagnon and Geraghty. On one occasion, 11 Gagnon told her that: "Dan's a man's man and you [have got to] deal with it." Geraghty 12 told Peters in effect: "it's just the way men talk."

13 In or about June of 2003, Peters told Pipczynski in general terms about the 14 sexual statements that Mazzolini had made in her presence.¹³ Pipczynski told Peters to 15 speak to the Personnel Department about the matter, and Pipczynski notified City 16 Personnel Director Raisa Riggott (Riggott) about Peters's concerns. Approximately one 17 month later, in July of 2003, Peters told Riggott that certain conduct in the WWTP
18 offended her, and that Mazzolini's conduct was the most offensive. She told Riggott 19 generally about Mazzolini's statements regarding sex and relayed some of Mazzolini's 20 statements. Peters also told Riggott that there was an atmosphere of retaliation at the 21 WWTP, and that Gagnon was acting in a manner that made that work place unpleasant

¹³ Dushane also told Pipczynski that he was uncomfortable with Mazzolini's statements, but the record does not pinpoint the timing of this complaint.

1 for her. Peters's meeting with Riggott lasted approximately one hour, and at its 2 conclusion, Riggott told Peters that she would seek information from other workers.
3 Riggott then reported Peters's allegations to Pipczynski and asked him if he was aware 4 of the issue. Pipczynski replied that he had perceived some dissension in the WWTP.

5 Riggott's Investigation

6 After the meeting with Peters, Riggott met with some of the WWTP employees to 7 discuss Peters's allegations. Dushane declined to be interviewed because he was 8 uncomfortable discussing Mazzolini's statements with Riggott. Riggott did not seek to 9 interview Mazzolini, and she did not tell Mazzolini of Peters's allegations against him or 10 that she was investigating his conduct.

11 Following her interviews, Riggott contacted Pipczynski and discussed the 12 allegations and the results of her interviews. Riggott also contacted City Labor Attorney 13 Elaine Reall (Reall). Riggott told Reall that she wished to discuss a corrective action 14 plan for Mazzolini, and that that she wanted to issue Mazzolini a "last and final" 15 warning. Reall drafted a letter for Riggott's use.

16 On August 8, 2003, Riggott issued a letter (written warning) to Mazzolini that 17 stated in pertinent part as follows:

18 This office has conducted a thorough investigation of your recent conduct.
19 It has been determined that you have by your actions and comments 20 created a hostile work environment for fellow employees. Sexual 21 harassment, and other forms of workplace harassment are not acceptable 22 conduct and will not be tolerated in any City workplace. This letter 23 represents a "last chance" written warning. If you continue to engage in 24 any behavior that violates the City's sexual harassment policy, you will be 25 required, at your own expense, to attend an additional sexual harassment 26 training session. I will make arrangements with you and your supervisor

1 within the next week to implement such training.¹⁴
 2
 3 It has also come to my attention that you publicly denounced the recent 4 sexual harassment training provided by the City as a waste of time.¹⁵ 5 Again, unless you are willing and able to abide by City policy, and 6 Massachusetts' law, you would do well to submit your resignation and 7 seek work elsewhere. Your insubordinate and uncooperative behavior is 8 not acceptable. It is the City's clear responsibility to take any and all 9 actions to eliminate and prevent instances of workplace harassment.
 10 Such training is a serious matter; it is not a joke and your public refusal to 11 abide by City policy does not demonstrate the type of attitude necessary 12 to succeed in a municipal job.

13
 14 For the next 12 months you will be closely monitored regarding your work 15 behavior, your demonstrated commitment to changing your unacceptable 16 behavior and your overall job performance. Your recent request for 17 another position will be denied, and all such additional requests for 18 transfers and/or promotions will be denied until the City is satisfied that 19 you have corrected your behavior.¹⁶
 20

21 Soon after August 8, 2003, Gagnon approached Peters and told her that 22 Mazzolini had received "a letter", and that Peters was a big troublemaker. For a short 23 period of time following this exchange, some of the employees in the WWTP did not 24 speak to Peters. At a certain point, Mazzolini and Gagnon resumed speaking in 25 Peters's presence, and some of their conversations included sexual statements that 26 offended Peters.

27 The Disciplinary Grievances

28 Mazzolini filed a grievance on August 12, 2003 (2nd grievance) over the August 8

¹⁴ There is no evidence in the record indicating that the City implemented this requirement.

¹⁵ The record does not clearly identify how Riggott acquired information about critical statements that Mazzolini may have made regarding the City's sexual harassment training session.

¹⁶ Reall did not draft or suggest the last sentence of this letter. This was the first time

1 written warning. When Mazzolini gave the grievance to Pipczynski, Pipczynski stated 2 loudly: "Another grievance? You just don't get it do you? But you are going to get it."
3 Pipczynski then left the room with the grievance in his hand. Pipczynski did not respond 4 in writing to Mazzolini's 2nd grievance.

5 On August 18, 2003, Riggott issued the following letter to Mazzolini:

6 As you are aware, the City has established a sexual harassment policy to 7 eliminate all types of harassment and hostile work environments within all 8 City departments. Based upon the findings of my recent investigation of 9 your conduct and as part of the discipline process, I am formally referring 10 you to our Employee Assistance Program (EAP). As a condition of 11 employment, you are required to report to the office of Patrick Fleming at 12 151 Main Street, 3rd Floor, in Northampton at 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, 13 August 21, 2003 for a complete assessment. If you do not show up for 14 this appointment or any future referral appointments that are scheduled 15 for you, you will be subject to further discipline up to and including 16 termination.

18 If you are unable to keep this schedule appointment due to a prior 19 commitment, you must contact Patrick Fleming's office directly at 584-20 0390 to reschedule your visit. You will personally be responsible for any 21 costs that are incurred for any referral appointments that are arranged for 22 you thereafter.¹⁷ These appointments should not be scheduled during 23 your normal working hours. You must sign a release form when you 24 arrive at the office. By signing the release form, the City will be advised 25 as to whether or not you have accessed the program and are willing to 26 follow through with their recommendations. No other information will be 27 released.¹⁸

28 29 Mazzolini attended the EAP appointment and filed a grievance (3rd grievance) on that the City had denied an employee a future promotion for a disciplinary purpose.

¹⁷ City had previously referred individuals to the City's EAP program, but had never required any individual to absorb the cost of the referral.

¹⁸ Riggott knew of Mazzolini's grievances at the time that she gave Mazzolini the August 18th letter. Riggott receives copies of grievances at the time that they are filed with Pipczynski, and Pipczynski sent copies of all of his letters denying Mazzolini's grievances to the Mayor and to Riggott.

1 August 25, 2003 over his required participation.¹⁹

2

3 Mazzolini's Additional Job Grievances

4 Mazzolini filed a 4th grievance on August 26, 2003, challenging the City's 5 decision not to award him the position that he had sought in July. In letters dated 6 August 28, 2003, Pipczynski denied Mazzolini's 3rd and 4th grievances.

7 On or about September 2, 2003, Mazzolini forwarded a letter to the Mayor 8 requesting his review of the grievances that Mazzolini had previously filed. The Mayor 9 responded to Mazzolini's September 2 letter on September 9, 2003, affirming the City's 10 decisions on Mazzolini's 2nd, 3rd and 4th grievances.

11 On November 10, 2003, Mazzolini delivered a 5th grievance to Pipczynski 12 challenging the City's failure to award him the position that he had previously sought.
13 Pipczynski was annoyed by the grievance and tore it up and threw it in a trash can. He 14 then told Mazzolini to go back to work and stop wasting the taxpayers' money. On 15 November 13, 2003, Mazzolini filed a grievance (6th grievance) alleging that Pipczynski 16 had violated Mazzolini's Union rights by tearing up and discarding Mazzolini's 5th 17 grievance.

18 Pipczynski denied Mazzolini's 5th and 6th grievances by letter dated December 19 12, 2003. In his denial letter, Pipczynski noted that Riggott's written warning stated that 20 Mazzolini would be denied all future promotions until the City was satisfied that 21 Mazzolini had corrected his behavior.

1 On December 15, 2003, after he had received Pipczynski's December 12 letter 2 denying his grievances, Mazzolini forwarded a letter to the Mayor. In his December 15 3 letter, Mazzolini described his failure to receive the Sewer position, denied that he had 4 made any remarks of a sexual nature, and asked the Mayor to meet with him and 5 award him the position that he had been seeking.

6 The Union's Action

7 Union staff representative Donna Bowler (Bowler) contacted Riggott by letter 8 dated August 22, 2003, and asked Riggott to tell the Union and Mazzolini what specific 9 behaviors, actions or words the City deemed to constitute sexual harassment, and to 10 provide copies of all paperwork produced as part of Riggott's investigation. The City did 11 not provide any information to the Union in response to this request.²⁰ In September 12 and early October of 2003, the Union again requested information from Riggott 13 regarding the issues underlying Mazzolini's discipline and asked the City to hold the 14 August 12 and 25 grievances in abeyance pending receipt of information from the City.
15 The City did not provide the requested information in response to these letters.²¹ On 16 January 8, 2004, the Union demanded to meet with the City regarding Mazzolini's 17 grievances and the Union's belief that the City had dealt directly with Mazzolini in 18 violation of the Law.

19 Events that Occurred After the Written Warning

¹⁹ There is no evidence in the record of any particular action by Mazzolini that occurred between the written warning and the August 18th letter.

²⁰ The City had not told Mazzolini what specific statements or conduct of his had constituted sexual harassment.

1 Between September of 2003 and February of 2004, Mazzolini continued to make 2 comments within Peters's earshot that Peters found offensive. At some point prior to 3 February 9, 2004, Riggott told Pipczynski that he needed to talk to the individuals at the 4 WWTP about the allegations that Peters had made against Mazzolini. On or about 5 February 10, 2004, Pipczynski initiated a meeting in Pipczynski's office with Mazzolini, 6 Gagnon, Geraghty and Union Steward Paul Bouthilette. Pipczynski told Mazzolini that 7 employees at the WWTP had complained about Mazzolini's conduct at the WWTP, and 8 that Mazzolini's conduct had created a work environment at the WWTP which could 9 precipitate a lawsuit against the City. Pipczynski forcefully told Mazzolini to "fix it" or 10 Mazzolini would be terminated, and Gagnon and Geraghty would lose their houses.
11 When Mazzolini told Pipczynski that he did not know what to fix, Pipczynski told him 12 that Mazzolini should speak to Riggott about the issue.

13 Following the meeting, Mazzolini went to ask Riggott about the allegations 14 against him. Riggott told Mazzolini that she did not have any information for him, and 15 she did not give him any details about the allegations against him.

16 Mazzolini's Complaint Against Pipczynski

17 On or about February 12, 2004, Mazzolini filed a written complaint with Riggott 18 alleging that Pipczynski had harassed Mazzolini on six occasions. Riggott did not 19 interview Mazzolini regarding this complaint, and the City did not investigate or ²¹ There is no evidence that the City provided the Union with the information that it sought prior to forwarding a copy of Reall's March 23, 2004 report.

1 discipline Pipczynski for any of the conduct that Mazzolini alleged.²²

2 Peters’s Written Complaint

3 At some point in February of 2004, Bowler contacted Peters and suggested that 4 Peters file a written complaint of sexual harassment with the Equal Employment 5 Opportunity Commission (EEOC) or the City to document the conduct by Mazzolini that 6 Peters found offensive. Peters wrote the following memorandum (written complaint) and 7 gave it to Riggott on or about February 25, 2004:

8 This letter is to submit a formal complaint of Sexual Harassment against 9 Dan Mazzolini and of Retaliation by David Gagnon.

10 11 In August 2003 I participated in an investigation by the Personnel 12 Department into Dan’s conduct at the Wastewater Treatment Plant. The 13 retaliation and intimidation toward me by David Gagnon that followed is 14 historically based in Dave’s “management style.”

15
16 During the August interview, I informed you of a hostile work environment 17 polluted with Dan’s stories of sexual prowess and exploits.

- 18
19 • Specifically, I mentioned that while riding in a pickup driven by 20 Brian Geraghty going to the mandatory Furlough Meeting (Feb.
21 2003) Dan mentioned that he had to lose weight because his new 22 girlfriend told him that “he was too heavy on top of her.” When I 23 expressly stated directly to Dan: “Dan, that is more than I want to 24 hear!” Dan, clearly enjoying my discomfort, went on to tell Brian 25 that he has started doing upper-body strengthening exercises in ²² The City challenged the Hearing Officer’s credibility determination that Riggott failed to conduct an investigation into Mazzolini’s complaint. We will not disturb a hearing officer’s credibility determination absent a clear preponderance of all relevant evidence that the determination is incorrect. City of Somerville, 23 MLC 11, 12 (1996). If the reason for the credibility determination is clearly stated and the evidence does not require a contrary finding, we will not amend the finding. Vinal v. Contributory Retirement Appeal Board, 13 Mass. App. Ct. 85 (1982). Here, the Hearing Officer explained that she did not credit Riggott’s testimony on this issue because some of Riggott’s testimony surrounding this issue was inaccurate and implausible. We find no evidence in the record that requires a contrary finding. Therefore, we will not disturb the Hearing Officer’s credibility determination.

1 order to better support his frame on top of her 110 pound body.
2

- 3 • Also, I mentioned another incidence that occurred in the Treatment 4 Plant break room in the presence of David Gagnon, myself and one 5 or two others: Dan was bragging about his sexual conquest of all 6 (or nearly all) of the women at the Meadowbrook Apartment 7 complex where he once was employed. He went on to say that 8 he'd "done it doggy-style with all the women." Again, I told Dan 9 directly that his talk was more than I wanted to hear, but this time 10 Dave chimed in to encourage Dan's story.

- 11
12 • There were numerous overheard conversations between Dan and 13 Steve about Steve's dog in various dog-human sexual situations.
14 Adding to the uncomfortable work atmosphere were Dog drawings 15 on the chalkboard.

16
17 Retaliation toward me followed immediately after Dan received a letter.
18 Dave didn't speak to me, Brian didn't speak to me, in fact nobody 19 spoke to me; if I walked into the break room, everybody stopped 20 talking and/or left the room; I was forbidden to go to the DPW office, 21 but no reason was given. There was a palpable atmosphere of hatred 22 that caused me a significant amount of emotional distress. While I was 23 out on sick leave for an appendectomy, Dave organized the fall Steak 24 Cookout, excluding me. However, he left foil-wrapped potatoes in the 25 fridge to ensure that I was aware of my exclusion. Dave is a bully, 26 NOT a manager! The culture at the Treatment Plant is one of finding a 27 person's weak spot and exploiting it.

28
29 Over the course of the last six months, I have come to realize that 30 Dave's behavior has long, historical roots that date back to the 31 wretched treatment of Bob Kacmarczyk, and other nastiness that I 32 endured. There were other incidences where the guys stopped talking 33 to me, but my "spies" revealed the reasons:

- 34
35 • Within a month or two of receiving my (required) Grade 6 36 license there was a hostile silence – because "I was too smart." 37
38 • Within days of passing my CDL learner's permit – nobody was 39 allowed to help me with the circle check until Bill Forrester 40 intervened. The atmosphere only got WORSE until I backed 41 down and made no further effort to pursue a CDL license.
42
43 • The list could go on and on...even the contractors from 44 Waterline noticed Dave's attitude.

1
2 I sincerely hope that there is some solution to this situation that will 3 lessen my feeling of ostracism and foster a better work atmosphere for 4 ALL treatment plant workers. (emphasis in original)
5

6 Riggott forwarded Peters's written complaint to Reall on the same day that she received 7 it. Riggott attached the following documents to the complaint: 1) the harassment 8 complaint that Mazzolini filed against Pipczynski; 2) a letter written by Mazzolini to 9 "whom it may concern" that described the Union's no-confidence vote; Pipczynski's 10 angry response; Mazzolini's 1st and 2nd grievances; Pipczynski's response to 11 Mazzolini's first grievance; and Pipczynski's observation of Mazzolini while Mazzolini 12 was cutting grass on July 10, 2003; 3) Gagnon's July 10, 2003 letter to Pipczynski 13 regarding the uniforms; and 4) a memo from Mazzolini to Bowler stating that Pipczynski 14 threw Mazzolini's 5th grievance in the trash.

15 Reall's Investigation and Report

16 Following receipt of Peters's written complaint, the Mayor met with Riggott and 17 Pipczynski. Riggott and Pipczynski told the Mayor that they had determined that 18 Mazzolini had engaged in sexually harassing conduct, and indicated that they were 19 leaning in the direction of terminating Mazzolini. Consequently, the Mayor asked Riggott 20 to ascertain if Reall could conduct an "independent investigation" into Peters's 21 allegations.

22 Riggott contacted Reall and they discussed Peters's complaint. Reall told Riggott 23 that she (Reall) could conduct an investigation into Peters's allegations, and the City 24 retained Reall to do so. At the time of her investigation, Reall was aware of the 25 grievances that Mazzolini had previously filed.

1 Reall began her investigation on March 1, 2004 by reviewing the City's Equal 2 Employment Opportunity Policy (EEO Policy) and the collective bargaining agreement 3 between the City and the Union. Reall then interviewed every employee and supervisor 4 who worked at the WWTP, concluding the interviews on March 19, 2003.²³ Union
5 President David Kieliszek and Bowler attended all of the interviews along with Riggott.²⁴

6 In his interview, Dushane told Reall about statements that Mazzolini had made 7 describing sexual activity and denigrating Dushane's religion. For example, Dushane 8 told Reall that Mazzolini had described "cornholing" women and stated that "his 9 girlfriend doesn't want him on top anymore." In her interview, Peters told Reall that 10 Mazzolini had made many statements of a sexual nature that Peters found offensive, 11 and Peters cited examples, such as discussing having "doggie-style" sex with women at 12 the Meadowbrook apartments.²⁵ Peters told Reall that, after she complained about 13 Mazzolini's conduct to Riggott, she was subjected to retaliation and given the "silent 14 treatment" by many male employees but still routinely heard statements from Mazzolini 15 that she found to be obscene. In his interview, employee Bill Heron (Heron) told Reall 16 that Mazzolini made the following statement regarding a murder victim: "I f----- her up ²³ After the City initiated Reall's investigation, Pipczynski encouraged Dushane to report the statements and conduct that Dushane had observed from Mazzolini.

²⁴ We have amended this finding of fact to more accurately reflect the attendees at Reall's investigation.

²⁵ Peters also told Reall about conduct by Gagnon that Peters found to be offensive and/or retaliatory.

1 the a-- before I killed her.”²⁶

2 Reall's Report

3 Reall's report identified Mazzolini, Gagnon and Geraghty as “alleged 4 harasser/retaliators.” Reall described her interviews with Mazzolini, Gagnon and 5 Geraghty in her report and noted their responses to the allegations and statements 6 attributed to them.²⁷ Reall's report expressed her conclusion that there was merit to the 7 allegations²⁸ that Mazzolini had subjected Dushane to religious harassment and a 8 hostile workplace.²⁹ She also determined that there was merit to Peters's hostile work 9 environment/sex discrimination allegations. In her report, Reall documented the factual 10 basis for her conclusions by describing the statements that Peters, Dushane and others 11 attributed to Mazzolini. Reall's report stated that every employee and supervisor other 12 than Geraghty admitted that Mazzolini had acted in a less than appropriate fashion, that 13 “numerous employees” admitted hearing Mazzolini repeatedly tell “dirty” jokes and talk 14 explicitly about sex, and that “every employee questioned provided some type of 15 example of inappropriate, sexually graphic language used by Mr. Mazzolini in the ²⁶ The record included notes that Riggott took during Reall's interviews, and the parties stipulated that the notes accurately reflect statements made by the interviewees to Reall. Heron's statement is included in the notes of his interview.

²⁷ Reall's report stated that Mazzolini denied saying anything of a sexual nature in the workplace or “razzing” Dushane about his religion. Reall also stated in her report that Gagnon denied hearing Mazzolini make any sexually explicit remarks.

²⁸ Reall's report indicates that the City had received a written complaint from a male co-worker of Peters's, and suggests that Dushane was the complainant. However, the record contains no evidence that Dushane ever filed a written complaint with the City.

²⁹ Reall relied on various factors in making her determination, like her perceived credibility of the interviewees and corroboration of statements by other interviewees.

1 workplace.”

2 As a result of her investigation, Reall found that “the pervasive and sexually 3 charged nature of the WWTP was not adequately addressed by the supervisors 4 assigned to the WWTP [and the] remedial, corrective action taken by the City with 5 respect to the principal harasser (Mr. Mazzolini) has failed to correct or remedy the 6 hostile work environment.” Reall’s report contained the following recommendations 7 based on her review of the City’s exposure to legal liability under state and federal law:

- 8 1) Remove Mazzolini from the work force;
- 9
- 10 2) Implement a training program focused on what constitutes an 11 appropriate, professional work environment at the WWTP;
- 12
- 13 3) Impose the following supervisory discipline:
- 14
- 15 a. Demote Gagnon and transfer him out of the WWTP.
- 16
- 17 b. Issue Geraghty a comprehensive written warning, require 18 Geraghty to complete a City approved supervisory training course, 19 and closely evaluate and monitor Geraghty’s progress.
- 20

21 Reall’s report contained the following written rationale for recommending Mazzolini’s 22 termination:

23 This individual has been credibly cited as engaging in harassing behavior 24 throughout the term of his employment. He has rejected the City’s attempt 25 at training and does not acknowledge any need for any change in his 26 workplace behavior. This investigation revealed that his conduct appears 27 to be the direct and proximate cause of the hostile and tense work 28 environment experience by the complaining parties...In light of the fact that 29 Mr. Mazzolini categorically denies ever having done or said anything that 30 warranted a Final Letter of Warning, has stated that his view that sexual 31 harassment training is “BS” and refuses to take responsibility for his 32 harassment of Steve Dushane, it is unlikely that further internal 33 remediation is possible with this individual.

34
35 Although Reall noted that the issue was outside of her investigatory charge, Reall found

1 that Pipczynski occasionally yelled at his subordinates, and she recommended that the 2 City send Pipczynski to a training workshop regarding discipline or dealing with difficult 3 employees. Reall submitted her report, dated March 23, 2004, to Riggott, and Riggott 4 forwarded it to the Mayor.

5 The City's Decision to Terminate Mazzolini

6 The Mayor and Riggott subsequently met to discuss the report. The Mayor did 7 not undertake any independent inquiry into the matters addressed in the report, and he 8 asked Riggott to implement all of Reall's recommendations. On April 7, 2004, Riggott 9 convened a meeting with Pipczynski, Union representative Jonathon Tuttle (Tuttle) and 10 Mazzolini. Pipczynski told Mazzolini that he was terminated and gave Mazzolini a letter 11 signed by Riggott³⁰ that stated as follows:

12 Today at approximately 10:00 a.m. you are being provided the opportunity 13 to explain why the City of Easthampton should not, effective immediately, 14 terminate your employment as attendant in the City's Waste Water 15 Treatment Plant. A review of your personnel file reveals that you were 16 given a Last and Final Warning on August 8, 2003. As part of that warning 17 you were strongly counseled that any further conduct involving sexually 18 inappropriate or harassing work conduct would result in termination of 19 employment.

20 21 As a result of two additional written complaints of harassment filed by 22 separate members of your bargaining unit,³¹ an investigation of the work 23 environment at the Waste Water Treatment Plant was conducted by an 24 outside investigator during March of 2004. During such investigation you 25 denied saying or doing anything of a sexual, racial or religious nature, or 26 engaging in any form of behavior that a reasonable person might view as 27 intimidating or harassing. You also indicated that you did not "understand" 28 and in no way accepted the validity of the earlier Final Warning.

29 30 The results of the City's investigation do not support your blanket denial of ³⁰ Riggott signed the letter, but the Mayor authorized the termination decision.

³¹ As previously noted, the record contains no evidence of a second written complaint.

1 such actions. A substantial majority of your fellow co-workers supported 2 the allegations contained in such complaints and offered other examples 3 of serious, sustained breaches of appropriate work behavior. The City 4 provides regular training around the issue of sexual harassment. It also 5 maintains a clearly communicated policy of enforcing equal employment 6 opportunity in the work place. Your failure, despite participation in such 7 training and the issuance of a Last and Final Warning, to follow the City's 8 standard of appropriate work behavior leaves the City with no choice but 9 to end your employment....

10
11 Mazzolini filed a grievance over his termination on April 7, 2004. Pipczynski 12 denied the grievance on April 12, 2004. At no point prior to his termination did anyone 13 from the City tell Mazzolini what specific allegations Peters and Dushane had made 14 against him.³²

15 Pipczynski did not attend training as Reall recommended in her report.
16 Geraghty and Gagnon resigned before the City implemented the disciplinary action that 17 Reall had recommended for them.

18 Opinion

19 A public employer that retaliates or discriminates against an employee for 20 engaging in activity protected by Section 2 of the Law violates Section 10(a)(3) of the 21 Law. Southern Worcester Regional Vocational School District v. Labor Relations 22 Commission, 386 Mass. 414 (1982); School Committee of Boston v. Labor Relations 23 Commission, 40 Mass. App. Ct. 327 (1996). The Board traditionally applies a three-24 step analysis to Section 10(a)(3) discrimination cases. Town of Clinton, 12 MLC 1361 25 (1985) (citing Trustees of Forbes Library v. Labor Relations Commission, 384 Mass.
26 559 (1981)). First, the Board determines whether the charging party has established a ³² We have modified this finding of fact to more accurately conform to the record evidence.

1 prima facie case of discrimination by producing evidence to support each of the 2 following four elements: 1) the employee engaged in protected activity; 2) the employer 3 knew of the protected activity; 3) the employer took adverse action against the 4 employee; and 4) the employer's conduct was motivated by a desire to penalize or 5 discourage the protected activity. If the charging party establishes a prima facie case, 6 the employer may offer evidence of one or more lawful reasons for taking the adverse 7 action. Once the employer produces lawful reasons for its actions, the employee must 8 prove that, "but for" the protected activity, the employer would not have taken the 9 adverse action. Trustees of Forbes Library, 384 Mass. at 565-66; Bristol County, 26 10 MLC 105, 109 (2000).

11 In discrimination cases where the charging party has proffered direct evidence of 12 discrimination, the Board applies the two-step analysis articulated in Wynn & Wynn, 13 P.C. v. Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, 431 Mass. 655 (2000); 14 Town of Dennis, 29 MLC 79, 83 (2002). Direct evidence is evidence that, "if believed, 15 results in an inescapable, or at least highly probable, inference that a forbidden bias 16 was present in the workplace." Wynn & Wynn, 431 Mass. at 667 (citing Johansen v.
17 NCR Comten, Inc., 30 Mass. App. Ct. 294, 300 (1991)). Under the Wynn & Wynn two-18 step analysis, the charging party must first prove by a preponderance of the evidence 19 that a proscribed factor played a motivating part in the challenged employment 20 decision. The burden of persuasion then shifts to the employer who may prevail by 21 proving that it would have made the same decision even without the illegitimate motive.
22 Id. at 669 – 70.

1 In this case, undisputed evidence discloses that Mazzolini engaged in protected, 2 concerted activity by filing grievances, and that Pipczynski and the Mayor were well-3 acquainted with Mazzolini's grievances. There is also no dispute that City's decision to 4 terminate Mazzolini constitutes adverse action. Town of Athol, 25 MLC 208, 211 (1999).
5 The City acknowledges that Pipczynski was "irked" and "annoyed" by Mazzolini's 6 protected activity. We further find that Pipczynski expressed disdain for Mazzolini's 7 grievances and implicitly threatened Mazzolini with negative consequences for filing the 8 grievances. We therefore conclude that Mazzolini has established all four elements of 9 the prima facie case set forth above. We further conclude that Pipczynski's actions, 10 particularly his statements to Mazzolini after Mazzolini filed the 1st and 2nd grievances 11 and his act of tearing up and throwing away the 5th grievance in front of Mazzolini, 12 constitutes direct evidence of anti-union animus. See Town of Brookfield, 28 MLC 320, 13 328 (2002) (selectman's statement that unions were trouble and employee might not be 14 around to enjoy a union constituted direct evidence of anti-union animus).

15 The City nevertheless contends that Mazzolini cannot meet his initial burden 16 because the Mayor, not Pipczynski, decided to terminate Mazzolini and the Mayor held 17 no animus against Mazzolini's concerted, protected activities. We disagree. Although 18 Pipczynski did not make the ultimate termination decision, his authority to deny 19 Mazzolini the Craftsman position that Mazzolini sought demonstrates that Pipczynski's 20 words and conduct can constitute direct evidence of unlawful animus. See Wynn & 21 Wynn, 431 Mass. at 667 (stray remarks in the workplace, statements by people without 22 the power to make employment decisions, and statements made by decision makers

1 unrelated to the decisional process itself do not suffice to satisfy a charging party's 2 threshold burden). Additionally, Pipczynski's conduct infected the Mayor's decision to 3 terminate Mazzolini with the anti-union animus that Pipczynski harbored. Pipczynski 4 participated in the termination process when he and Riggott told the Mayor that they 5 were leaning in the direction of terminating Mazzolini, thereby prompting the Mayor to 6 instigate the formal investigation, a significant step in the termination process. This 7 evidence of unlawful animus permeating the Mayor's decision persuades us that 8 unlawful animus played a motivating part in the challenged decision. Cf. Board of 9 Regents, 12 MLC 1315, 1335 (1985) (where the decision-maker does not make an 10 independent review of the facts and bases the decision to act on the evaluations and 11 recommendations of other supervisors, the motives of the supervisors in a 12 discrimination case will be imputed to the decision-maker).

13 Because Mazzolini has established through direct evidence that a proscribed 14 factor played a motivating part in the challenged, adverse employment action, we shift 15 the burden to the City to show that its legitimate reason, standing alone, would have 16 induced it to make the same decision. Wynn & Wynn, 431 Mass. at 666 (citing 17 Johansen, 30 Mass. App. Ct. at 301).

18 The City contends that the Mayor decided to terminate Mazzolini because the 19 investigation disclosed that Mazzolini had engaged in continuing and ongoing 20 harassment of employees, and because Mazzolini was unable to correct his behavior 21 after warning. Because credible evidence establishes that Mazzolini subjected Dushane 22 and Peters to unwelcome, sexually offensive conduct, we find that the City's proffered

1 reason was legitimate and not pretextual. Boston Water & Sewer Commission, 29 MLC 2 176, 181 (2003).

3 Mazzolini argues that the unlawful motivation behind the City's decision to 4 terminate him is readily apparent from a variety of factors, like the timing of the 5 termination; one month after Mazzolini filed a complaint against Pipczynski and two 6 months after the Union had threatened legal action against the City. Mazzolini contends 7 that the City's proffered reasons were trivial because the alleged harassment occurred 8 when Mazzolini was not speaking directly to Peters, and thus Peters was the recipient 9 of less objectionable "secondhand harassment." Mazzolini also contends that, on the 10 one occasion that he allegedly spoke directly to Dushane about sex, Mazzolini ceased 11 the conversation upon Dushane's request, and his alleged statements about Dushane's 12 religion were isolated instances. Finally, Mazzolini argues that the second investigation 13 was based on events that occurred prior to the first investigation and prior to the 14 discipline that Mazzolini had received in August of 2003.

15 We find that the City has satisfied its burden to demonstrate that the findings, 16 conclusions and recommendations in Reall's report, standing alone, would have 17 induced the Mayor to terminate Mazzolini. Although the City's initial efforts to 18 investigate Peters's verbal complaints were not error-free, the formal investigation that 19 followed Reall's written complaint yielded concrete evidence from multiple employees 20 that Mazzolini had engaged in unwelcome and sexually offensive conduct. Faced with 21 the knowledge of Mazzolini's conduct and its effects on Dushane and Peters, the City 22 was obligated to take prompt remedial action. See generally, College-Town, Division of

1 Interco, Inc. v. Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, 400 Mass. 156, 167 2 (1986) (employer is liable for sexual harassment in workplace under M.G.L. c. 151B, if 3 employer is aware of sexual harassment and fails to take adequate steps to remedy the 4 situation). The timing of the City's action supports the City's contention because the 5 Mayor terminated Mazzolini within two weeks of receiving the report. The City did not 6 single Mazzolini out from other employees who Reall determined had also engaged in 7 sexually harassing conduct, because the Mayor had asked Riggott to implement Reall's 8 disciplinary recommendations for Geraghty and Gagnon. Therefore, there is no 9 evidence that the City would have treated Mazzolini differently if he had not engaged in 10 protected, concerted activity. Although the City imposed harsher discipline on Mazzolini 11 than it imposed on Gagnon or Geraghty, any disparate treatment may have been 12 warranted because Reall's report described Mazzolini as the "principal harasser", and 13 the City had previously warned Mazzolini not to engage in workplace harassment.³³

14 Additionally, we find no merit in Mazzolini's argument that the conduct at issue 15 was trivial or isolated. Credible evidence demonstrates that Mazzolini made unwelcome 16 sexual comments to two employees who communicated their discomfort to him on 17 numerous occasions, and we need not consider whether so-called "secondhand

³³ Although the City may not have told Mazzolini what specific words or actions constituted sexual harassment, the City's August 8, 2003 letter clearly advised him that sexual harassment and other forms of workplace harassment would not be tolerated in any City workplace. Additionally, Peters had told Mazzolini that she did not want to hear any comments of a sexual nature.

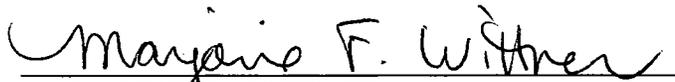

1 harassment" is less offensive or actionable than first-hand harassment.³⁴

2 Lastly, we are not persuaded that the City terminated Mazzolini solely for conduct 3 that it had addressed in prior discipline. The credited evidence demonstrates that 4 Mazzolini continued to make unwelcome sexual comments to Peters after he received 5 the last chance written warning. Moreover, the City initiated the second investigation a 6 short time after Peters submitted her written complaint at the end of February of 2004.
7 Accordingly, we find that the City would have terminated Mazzolini's employment 8 regardless of whether he had engaged in concerted, protected activity.

9 CONCLUSION

10 For the reasons cited above, we conclude that the City did not violate Section 11 10(a)(3) and, derivatively, Section 10(a)(1) of the Law, and we dismiss the complaint.

Appeal Rights

Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 150E, Section 11, decisions of the Commonwealth Employment Relations Board are appealable to the Appeals Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. To claim such an appeal, the appealing party must file a notice of appeal with the Division of Labor Relations within thirty (30) days of receipt of this decision. No Notice of Appeal need be filed with the Appeals Court.

³⁴ We express no opinion on whether Mazzolini's conduct constitutes unlawful sexual discrimination under M.G.L. c 151B. Our decision is limited to our conclusion that the City did not violate M.G.L. c. 150E when it terminated Mazzolini.
