

From: Ann Burke
To: DOI.HOI.2015 \(DOI\)
Subject: Cape Cod Times Article
Date: Wednesday, December 09, 2015 11:03:41 AM
Importance: High

---

Good morning,

I have been a homeowner on Cape Cod for over 20 years. I have Never submitted a claim. My insurance rate has risen from $600. 00 per year to the current rate of $1725.00
I don't live near the water or any other possible natural disaster making area. I have checked with other carriers, no difference in the coverage unless I am willing to decrease the amount of coverage on my home.

With each increase my mortgage payments increase. It is getting to the point that selling my home and renting is an enticing prospect.

I will be retiring next year and now may need to work in order to pay my mortgage.

It is absolutely ridiculous that the cost of insurance climbs while people are not receiving increases in their income.

Also, that natural disasters in other parts of the country are reflected in our premiums.

I do hope you will take this seriously and make some headway in decreasing the premiums for Cape homeowners.

Regards,

Ann Burke

Sent from my Windows Phone