Dear [REDACTED]:

We are writing to let you know about a recent security incident that Hibbett Retail, Inc. (“Hibbett”) experienced that resulted in unauthorized access to some of the personnel records that we maintain on our computer network. We wanted to make you aware that this could have resulted in unauthorized access to some of your personal information as a former employee of Hibbett or one of Hibbett’s affiliate companies. This letter provides additional information about what happened, what we are doing, and steps you can take in response to this matter.

What Happened? We recently discovered suspicious activity in our computer network. Upon discovery, we initiated an investigation, notified law enforcement, and secured our systems. We also engaged external forensic cybersecurity experts to assist with the investigation and ensure the security of our computer systems. The forensic investigation determined that an unknown third party gained unauthorized access to our computer systems between April 22, 2026, and April 25, 2026. During that time, the third party may have accessed and acquired certain files within our network, including personnel records that we maintain for HR purposes related to current and former employees and their dependents, and/or beneficiaries. Over the past few months, we have been conducting an in-depth review of these records.

What Information Was Involved? The records contain your name, along with your [REDACTED].

To place a security freeze on your credit report, you must send a written request to each of the three major consumer reporting agencies by regular, certified or overnight mail at the addresses below or, if available, comply with the consumer reporting agencies' online security freeze request procedures:

The credit bureaus must also send written confirmation to you within five (5) business days and provide you with a unique personal identification number (PIN) or password, or both that can be used by you to authorize the removal or lifting of the security freeze.

To lift the security freeze in order to allow a specific entity or individual access to your credit report, you must call or send a written request to the credit reporting agencies by mail or, if available, comply with the consumer reporting agencies' online procedures for lifting a security freeze, and include proper identification (name, address, and social security number) and the PIN number or password provided to you when you placed the security freeze as well as the identities of those entities or individuals you would like to receive your credit report or the specific period of time you want the credit report available.
