Dear Jane Smith:

We are writing to you about a cybersecurity incident at FAS Wealth Partners, Inc. ("FAS") that involved unauthorized access to certain files stored on our computer systems, some of which contained your personal information. This letter includes information about the event, our response, and resources we are making available to you.

Please note that financial transactions are executed on entirely separate systems at entirely separate entities that were unaffected by this incident. A number of controls are in place to detect and prevent suspicious financial activity on those systems.

What Happened? On Friday, February 6, 2026, we became aware of suspicious activity within our network. On Saturday, February 7, 2026, FAS took immediate steps to secure the network and engage a team of third-party specialists to investigate the nature and scope of the event. We also notified regulatory and law enforcement agencies. Thereafter, we conducted a thorough review of the relevant information to determine the types of information potentially affected and to whom it related. We then undertook a comprehensive review of our records to confirm the most up to date address information for each impacted individual. We completed that review on October 27, 2026.

What Information Was Involved? The types of information identified from the review include your name and test data.

What We Are Doing. We are committed to safeguarding the personal information entrusted to us. In response to this event, we have reviewed our policies and procedures related to data protection and implemented additional safeguards. Currently, we are not aware of any fraud or misuse of information from this event but as an additional safeguard and out of an abundance of caution, we have arranged for you to enroll, at no cost to you, in credit monitoring and identity protection services through TransUnion for a period of test.

What You Can Do. We encourage you to remain vigilant by reviewing your account statements and credit reports for suspicious activity. If you discover any suspicious or unusual activity in your accounts, please promptly contact your financial institution or company. We encourage you to enroll in the credit monitoring and identity protection services that we are making available to you. Instructions about how to enroll in these services and additional resources available to you are included in the enclosed Steps You Can Take to Protect Your Information.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, you are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, TransUnion, Experian, and Equifax. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call 1-877-322-8228. Once you receive your credit report, review it for discrepancies and identify any accounts you did not open or inquiries from creditors that you did not authorize. If you have questions or notice incorrect information, contact the credit reporting bureau.

You have the right to place an initial or extended fraud alert on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer's credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, you have the right to place a credit freeze on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without your express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a credit freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Address for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (e.g., state driver's license or identification card); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft, if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert or credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
