Dear [redacted]

DollarDays International, Inc. ("DDI") writes to notify you of an incident that may affect the privacy of certain information provided to us. This letter includes information about the incident, our response, and resources we are making available to you in an abundance of caution.

What Happened? DDI sells products from an online store located at https://www.dollardays.com. On February 24, 2026, DDI was alerted to unusual script activity on the online store and immediately began an investigation with the assistance of third-party specialists. The investigation determined that unauthorized coding was potentially impacting the online store checkout process between February 20 and February 24, 2026. The investigation further determined the unauthorized coding may have been capable of capturing certain transaction information for customers who used a credit card to make a purchase from the online store during this time.

What Information Was Involved? The transaction information potentially impacted included your name in combination with [redacted] Please note that DDI is not aware of any successful unauthorized access to or acquisition of any individual's credit card information a result of this incident. However, DDI is notifying you of this incident in an abundance of caution because our records indicate you made a purchase on our online store during the time we learned the unauthorized coding was present.

What We Are Doing. In response to this incident, DDI completed a thorough investigation with the assistance of third-party specialists and further secured administrative access to the DollarDays' online store. DDI also reviewed transaction history for suspicious activity and implemented additional security measures to limit the potential for a similar incident occurring in the future. Additionally, DDI is offering you access to complimentary credit monitoring and identity protection services.

What You Can Do. We encourage you to monitor your credit card statements for suspicious activity and to report any unauthorized transactions to your financial institution immediately. Additionally, we encourage you to enroll in the complimentary credit monitoring and identity protection services we are making available to you in an abundance of caution. Information about how to enroll in these services along with additional resources available to you are included in the attached Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information.

For More Information: You may contact us by calling [redacted] or writing to us at [redacted] Scottsdale, Arizona 85256.

We regret any concern or inconvenience this incident may cause you. We deeply value our relationship with our customers and thank you for your understanding as we worked to address this incident and continue to take steps to ensure the security of information provided to us.

Sincerely,

DollarDays International, Inc.

Please note that when signing up for monitoring services, you may be asked to verify personal information for your own protection to confirm your identity.

Monitor Your Accounts

We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your credit reports and account statements for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Under U.S. law, you are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, TransUnion, Experian, and Equifax. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call 1-877-322-8228. Once you receive your credit report, review it for discrepancies and identify any accounts you did not open or inquiries from creditors that you did not authorize. If you have questions or notice incorrect information, contact the credit reporting bureau.

You have the right to place an initial or extended "fraud alert" on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer's credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, you have the right to place a "credit freeze" on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without your express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a credit freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Address for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (e.g., state driver's license or identification card); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft, if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert or credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

You can further educate yourself regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps you can take to protect your personal information by contacting the credit reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), or your state Attorney General. The FTC also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. The FTC may be reached at 600 Pennsylvania Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261.

You have the right to file a police report if you ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, you will likely need to provide some proof that you have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement, your state Attorney General, and the FTC. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.
