Dear [REDACTED]

Advarra, Inc (“Advarra”) is a company that obtained your information in connection with services provided to Moffitt Cancer Center related to the care and treatment of patients and research study participants. On behalf of Moffitt Cancer Center, we are writing to notify you of a data security incident that occurred at Advarra and involved some of your information. This notice explains the incident, measures taken to protect your information, and some steps you may consider taking in response. We regret that this incident occurred and apologize for any inconvenience.

What Happened?

On October 26, 2023, Advarra was made aware of a data security incident and immediately took measures to contain the incident. Following the incident, a thorough investigation was conducted, which revealed that on October 25, 2023, an unauthorized third-party accessed a single Advarra employee user account and acquired a limited amount of data. After we identified the files that were involved, we began a process to review those files to identify their content. This review process took several months to complete. Advarra notified federal law enforcement officials about the incident and has continued cooperating with them since the incident.

What Information Was Involved?

Advarra’s review of the files generated a preliminary list of individuals whose information was contained in the files. We then worked to review the list of individuals in order to identify them and the entities that originally supplied their information to Advarra. On or about February 8, 2024, Advarra completed its review of the list of individuals and confirmed that the downloaded files contained your: name, [REDACTED]. At the same time, Advarra confirmed that it originally obtained your information from Moffitt Cancer Center in connection with services Advarra was providing to Moffitt Cancer Center at the time.

On February 21, 2024, Advarra notified Moffitt Cancer Center that your personal information was involved during the data security incident and on March 13, 2024, Moffitt Cancer Center completed its review of that information. We want to assure you that this data security incident did not involve any access to Moffitt Cancer Center’s systems, networks or electronic health records.

What We Are Doing.

Upon learning of this incident, we took immediate steps to disable the affected account, launch a comprehensive investigation, and assess the security of our systems. We also engaged cybersecurity experts. We confirmed containment of the incident on October 26, 2023, and since then have seen no further unauthorized access to any portion of our network.

Advarra has implemented additional measures to further strengthen our internal files system. We have secured the services of Kroll to provide identity monitoring at no cost to you for 24 months. For more information on how to help safeguard your identity, including instructions on how to activate your complimentary membership, please visit the below website and see the additional information provided with this letter.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver's license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

Consumers may further educate themselves regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps they can take to protect your personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission, or their state attorney general. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. Consumers can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. Consumers have the right to file a police report if they ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, consumers will likely need to provide some proof that they have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and the relevant state attorney general. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.

For New Mexico residents, consumers have rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act, such as the right to be told if information in their credit file has been used against them, the right to know what is in their credit file, the right to ask for their credit score, and the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. Further, pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the consumer reporting bureaus must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information; consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information; access to consumers' files is limited; consumers must give consent for credit reports to be provided to employers; consumers may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance based on information in their credit report; and consumers may seek damages from violators. Consumers may have additional rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act not summarized here. Identity theft victims and active-duty military personnel have specific additional rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act. We encourage consumers to review their rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act by visiting www.consumerfinance.gov/f/201504_cfpb_summary_your-rights-under-fcra.pdf, or by writing Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.
