Dear <<first_name>> <<middle_name>> <<last_name>> <<suffix>>,

Academic HealthPlans, Inc. ("AHP") is the insurance broker for <<b2b_text_1(University/College Name)>> and helps to administer your student health insurance plan. We are committed to protecting the security and confidentiality of all the information we maintain. We are writing to inform you about an incident involving some of your health plan information. This notice explains the incident, measures we have taken, and some steps you can take in response. To date, we do not have any evidence that indicates that your information was actually accessed or misused, but we are notifying you of this incident out of an abundance of caution.

On <<b2b_text_2(Date Health Insurance Carrier Notified)>>, we notified <<b2b_text_3(Health Insurance Carrier Name)>> of an email phishing incident that targeted AHP employees and may have resulted in unauthorized access to emails and attachments in the employees' email accounts. The investigation determined that two AHP employees' email accounts were subject to unauthorized access as a result of the incident between the dates of August 6, 2020 and August 24, 2020, and on October 2, 2020. Although we did not find any evidence that indicates that any emails or attachments were exported from the employees' email accounts or that any information was targeted or actually viewed, we could not definitively rule out that possibility. The investigation confirmed that the unauthorized access was limited to AHP's cloud-based, Microsoft Office 365 email system and did not involve AHP's enrollment waiver platform or any other AHP systems.

Subsequently, in order to determine if any emails or attachments contained personal information, we reviewed, both programmatically and manually, the information contained in the employees' email accounts. Based on this review, we determined that emails or attachments in the employees' email accounts contained information about you, including your name in combination with your <<b2b_text_4(Type of PHI involved for Individual)>>

If you believe you are the victim of identity theft or have reason to believe your personal information has been misused, you should immediately contact the Federal Trade Commission and/or the Attorney General's office in your state. You can obtain information from these sources about steps an individual can take to avoid identity theft as well as information about fraud alerts and security freezes. You should also contact your local law enforcement authorities and file a police report. Obtain a copy of the police report in case you are asked to provide copies to creditors to correct your records. Contact information for the Federal Trade Commission is as follows:

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years. To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. A fraud alert is free. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two, and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report. For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or Security Freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. That's because most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they can't see your report, they may not extend the credit. How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Experian Security Freeze, PO Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com
- TransUnion Security Freeze, PO Box 2000, Chester, PA 19016, www.transunion.com
- Equifax Security Freeze, PO Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com

You'll need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information. After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze. How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request. If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.
