A Quest Diagnostics Company

September 27, 2021

ExamOne, a Quest Diagnostics Company, performs services on behalf of Life Insurance Company. You may recall we collected your specimens and processed related paperwork on September 6th, 2021. We regret to inform you that we discovered in mid-September 2021, that the specimens and paperwork prepared during our visit were not received by the testing laboratory as anticipated. Your paperwork included personal information including your name and driver's license number along with your address, date of birth and the last four digits of your Social Security number.

Although we have no reason to believe that your information has been stolen or has or will be misused, there is some risk that this information could be used inappropriately. To help protect against the risk of identity theft, we have arranged to offer you credit monitoring services for a period of two (2) years, free of charge. The Equifax enclosure describes the Equifax credit monitoring product offered and how you can enroll. To take advantage of this offer, you must enroll by December 22, 2021.

If you are the victim of identity theft, you have the right to file a police report and obtain a copy of it. We have also provided these additional enclosures with information regarding measures you can take to protect your identity:

- Additional Information Relating to Identity Theft Protection, and
- Information on Security Freezes

It is our privilege to do business with Life Insurance Company and we hope that this unfortunate incident does not negatively impact your perception of this fine organization. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience this incident may cause. Please feel free to contact me at the below email address should you have any questions or concerns. Thank you for your time and again, please accept our apologies.

Sincerely,

Debby Stach

Information on Security Freezes

You may place, lift or remove a security freeze on your credit reports, free of charge. A security freeze lets you restrict access to your credit report, which in turn makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. However, placing a security freeze on your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prevent the timely approval of any requests you make for new loans, credit mortgages, employment, housing or other services unless you temporarily lift the freeze.

Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place your request for a security freeze with each of the three major consumer reporting agencies: Equifax (www.equifax.com); Experian (www.experian.com); and TransUnion (www.transunion.com). You may do so by writing to each via regular, certified or overnight mail at the addresses below, by calling each at the telephone numbers below or by visiting each at the below website addresses.

In order to request a security freeze, you will need to provide some or all of the following information to the credit reporting agency, depending on whether you do so online, by phone or by mail:

- (1) Your full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
- (2) Social Security number;
- (3) Date of birth;
- (4) If you have moved in the past five years, provide the addresses where you have lived over the prior five years;
- (5) Proof of current address such as a current utility bill, telephone bill, rental agreement, or deed;
- (6) A legible photocopy of a government issued identification card (state driver's license or ID card, military identification, etc.)
- (7) Social Security Card, pay stub or W2;
- (8) If you are a victim of identity theft, include a copy of either the police report, investigative report or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning the identity theft.

The credit reporting agencies have one to three business days after receiving your request to place a security freeze on your credit report, based upon the method of your request. They must also send written confirmation to you within five business days and provide you with a unique personal identification number (PIN) or password (or both) that can be used by you to authorize the removal or lifting of the security freeze. It is important to maintain this PIN/password in a secure place, as you will need it to lift or remove the security freeze.

To lift the security freeze in order to allow a specific entity or individual access to your credit report, you must make a request to each of the credit reporting agencies by mail, through their websites, or by phone (using the contact information above). You must provide proper identification (including name, address, and Social Security number) and the PIN number or password provided to you when you placed the security freeze as well as the identities of those entities or individuals you would like to receive your credit report. You may also temporarily lift a security freeze for a specified period of time rather than for a specific entity or individual, using the same contact information above. The credit reporting agencies have between one hour (for requests made online) and three business days (for requests made by mail) after receiving your request to lift the security freeze for those identified entities or for the specified period of time.

To remove the security freeze, you must make a request to each of the three credit reporting agencies by mail, through their website or by phone (using the contact information above). You must provide proper identification (name, address, and Social Security number) and the PIN number or password provided to you when you placed the security freeze. The credit reporting agencies have between one hour (for requests made online) and three business days (for requests made by mail) after receiving your request to remove the security freeze.
