Hi everyone,

I am very sorry to notify you of this. I am not sure how to handle this other than to notify you and ask that you check your credit reports.

I was using a company to help with credentialing and they reported a data breach. There is very likely fraud involved but I am not 100% certain.

I am not sure how the data was used or it was but I recommend checking your credit reports for credit card or other credit that you did not request.

I can make time to talk about this in a google meets for us all, if you would like this please let me know.

What do you recommend for a credit check-who do I go through? I called my bank and credit card, but do I call anyone else to alert them?
Thanks,
Stephanie

Stephanie

I recommend you check your credit thru the credit bureaus such as Experian.

I am going to report to the police as soon S we know of anyone has been breached.

Hi Jo-I just froze and put an alert on all of my info and credit through Equifax, good for 1 year. ;) Keep me posted.

Thanks,

Stephanie
