Dear Sample A. Sample:

We are writing with important information regarding a matter that may involve your information. This letter provides you with information about the matter, our response, and steps you may take if you feel they are appropriate for your situation.

What Happened and What Information Was Involved? Darling Consulting Group (“DCG”) provides services to the bank. Some of your information was maintained on a DCG platform called MOVEit identified to have a software vulnerability for which there was no immediate update. It was determined that on May 30, 2023, your name, date of birth, and deposit account number were at risk of being copied from DCG’s platform without authorization.

What We Are Doing. Upon learning about this matter, we worked with DCG to confirm the security of their platform by implementing a software update that became available after the vulnerability was discovered. Further, we are evaluating additional measures to mitigate reoccurrence of this type of event.

Additionally, we are providing you with tools, including complimentary identity monitoring services, and guidance in the “Steps You Can Take To Protect Personal Information” section of this letter to help you protect your personal information.

What You Can Do. We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your account statements and monitoring your free credit reports for suspicious activity over the next 24 months. We also recommend you enroll in the offered complimentary identity monitoring services. Enrollment instructions are enclosed. Please note that, due to privacy restrictions, we are unable to automatically enroll you in the offered monitoring services.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
