TRIAL COURT

DISTRICT COURT COMPLAINT LANGUAGE MANUAL

REVISED THROUGH
March 2, 2023

About This Manual

1. Using this manual. This manual includes offense codes and charging language for more than 5,000 offenses. It was developed by the Administrative Office of the District Court in 1994 and subsequently adopted for the WMS and MassCourts computer systems. In this manual:
 - A vertical line in the margin indicates either a now-repealed offense code, or an earlier version of a current offense code. These are retained because constitutional ex post facto rules limit criminal prosecutions to the offense definitions and penalties that were in effect at the time the offense was committed.
 - Civil motor vehicle infractions (CMVIs) are indicated by an asterisk (*) after their offense descriptions. See G.L. c. 90C, § 3(C).
 - Offense codes do not reflect statutory subsections. The format of these offense codes reflects statutory chapters and sections, but not statutory subsections – e.g., 269/10/H is an offense found in G.L. c.269, §10, but not necessarily in G.L. c. 269, §10(h). This is because it is not practical to incorporate the subsectioning of the General Laws and the Code of Massachusetts Regulations in the offense codes, since such subsectioning is often nonexistent, or a single subsection includes multiple offenses, or subsections have multiple layers (e.g., second-offense OUI is located at c.90, §24[1][a][1][4]). Offense code subsections have therefore been assigned arbitrarily (A, B, C, etc.). The offense description and the charging language do incorporate a reference to any statutory subsection.
2. An electronic version of this manual in PDF format is available in the criminal area of the District Court's internet site at <http://www.mass.gov/courts/districtcourt>. (Court users may also access this manual in the criminal area of the District Court's intranet site.) In addition, the Trial Court's Information Services Department makes these codes and charging language available on the internet at <http://www.mass.gov/courts/downloads/codes> in comma separated value (CSV) format for use in computerized systems.
3. Prosecutor controls charging language. While Massachusetts practice is for court personnel to prepare criminal complaints, the choice of charging language is ultimately the prosecutor's responsibility. Although the charging language in this manual is normally utilized as a matter of course, it is a prosecutor's right to vary the charging language as he or she wishes. When this occurs, the miscellaneous offense codes on p. 1 may be used to enter such nonstandard charging language for that case.
4. Jury must not view penalty information or subsequent-offense allegation. For the convenience of counsel and the sentencing judge, the charging language for each offense is followed by the authorized sentence for that offense. However, clerk's office personnel who work with juries must never submit to a jury a complaint or verdict slip that includes penalty information or indicates that the defendant is being charged as a subsequent offender. See Commonwealth v. Bart B., 424 Mass. 911, 913, 679 N.E.2d 531, 533-534 (1997), and cases cited; G.L. c. 278, § 11A. An expurgated version of the complaint may be prepared for the jury, or the judge may decide not to send the complaint to the jury room.
