State Prison Sentence

Prior to the “Truth in Sentencing” law, if an incarcerated individual is sentenced to the State Prison, except for life or as a habitual criminal, the court shall not fix the term of imprisonment but shall fix a maximum and minimum term for which he/she may be imprisoned. The minimum term shall not be less than two and a half years. All sentences that have a finite maximum term are eligible to have the term reduced by statutory good time, except for most sex offenses, crimes committed while confined, and certain “mandatory” sentences. In the “new law”, all state sentences have a minimum and a maximum term, unless an incarcerated individual is sentenced for life or is charged as a habitual criminal. The minimum term is used to determine parole eligibility, and the maximum term is used to determine discharge. Under both the “old” and “new” sentencing systems, an incarcerated individual is discharged from his/her sentence at the expiration of his term, less any statutory or earned good time. Under the “new” system none of the reduction will be attributable to statutory good time.

Releases	A release occurs when an incarcerated individual is released from the custody of the Massachusetts Department of Correction by way of expiration of sentence, parole, a non-Department of Correction incarcerated individual's release to other jurisdiction, a court release, or other legal release from the custody of Massachusetts Department of Correction.
Release to the Community Dashboard	The MA DOC release to the community dashboard displays criminally sentenced incarcerated individuals released to either a community in Massachusetts or out of state. Each release is counted, meaning an incarcerated person may be counted more than once in a year if the incarcerated person is released multiple times. The map includes releases to only Massachusetts.
