

Jeffrey E. Vogel, MD, MPH is a physician and serial entrepreneur focused in and around the digital health, precision medicine, injury prevention, longevity, weight loss, and aesthetics spaces. Dr. Vogel is a Board-Certified Occupational Medicine physician, and Instructor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School. Dr. Vogel graduated summa cum laude from Lafayette College with a Bachelors of Science in Biology and earned his medical degree from the Emory University School of Medicine. Dr. Vogel completed a two year Fellowship in Occupational, Environmental, and Preventive Medicine at Harvard University and earned a Masters in Public Health from the Harvard School of Public Health. Dr. Vogel is a former United States Delegate for the Tomodachi-Mitsui Leadership Council and is a former member of the Board of Advisors for the Lake Nona Impact Forum. He is an avid biohacker with interest in physiology and the use of heat and cold therapy, stem cells, exosomes, and peptides for human performance optimization.