12.01: Purpose

In 1972 the federal government passed the Marine Mammal Protection Act to protect marine mammal species that may be in danger of extinction or depletion due to anthropogenic activity and to keep populations levels at sustainable levels. In 1973, the federal government passed the Endangered Species Act to provide a program for the conservation of threatened and endangered plants and animals and the habitats in which they are found. As marine mammals and sea turtle species may interact with fishing gear and fishing activity, and are protected under the Marine Mammal Protection Act or the Endangered Species Act, fisheries are managed at the state and federal level to address the risk posed to these protected species.

For the waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth, the management of fisheries for protected species is accomplished by the Division of Marine Fisheries pursuant to its authorities at G.L. c. 130. Management measures have evolved over time, but currently include certain restrictions on the use and configuration of fixed gear (i.e., traps and gillnets) designed to reduce the risk of protected species becoming entangled in the gear and make any entanglements that may occur less injurious, as well as certain rules governing vessel conduct in areas where protected species may be present.

The regulations at 322 CMR 12.00 are particularly focused on minimizing the risk of interaction between fisheries, vessel activity, and North Atlantic right whales (“right whale”). The right whale is a critically endangered species. There are estimated to be approximately 400 known individuals in the population, as of 2019, and the population has been declining since 2010. Large numbers of these whales migrate into Commonwealth waters during the winter period and aggregate in Cape Cod Bay to feed on zooplankton before migrating out of the area during the early spring.

To address these risks, DMF has promulgated a series of regulations at 322 CMR 12.00 to protect right whales. This includes: a February 1 – April 30 seasonal closure of all waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth to trap gear fishing; a January 1 – May 15 closure of Cape Cod Bay and certain adjacent waters to gillnet gear; and a March 1 – April 30 speed limit for small vessels operating in Cape Cod Bay and certain adjacent waters. Each of these seasonal restrictions may be extended beyond their end date in response to the continued presence of right whales in the waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.

The protected species regulations at 322 CMR 12.00 reflect only a part of Division’s efforts to address protected species. DMF also regulates buoy line marking for gillnets and trap gear 322 CMR 4.00, establishes lobster and fish trap fishing seasons at 322 CMR 6.00, and restricts the issuance of lobster and trap fishing permits at 322 CMR 7.00. In aggregate, these various regulations create a portfolio of measures designed with the goal of minimizing the impact fishing and vessel activity may have on protected species when in the waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth and improving management moving forward.

~~The Division of Marine Fisheries works to protect marine protected species such as endangered turtles, harbor porpoise and large whales. The Division's efforts dovetail with federal regulation of marine mammals, including the northern right whale is the rarest of the world's great whales. Despite international protection by the International Whaling Commission established pursuant to the 1946 International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling and national protection afforded by the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 and the Endangered Species Act of 1973 the northern right whale is listed as endangered and its population remains dangerously low in the Atlantic.~~

~~In response to this threat the Massachusetts Legislature passed a Resolve in 1985 requesting the Department of Fisheries, Wildlife and Environmental Law Enforcement to study the right whale in Massachusetts waters and make recommendations for its conservation. That study recommended, among other measures, a 500 yard buffer zone between right whales and vessels within Massachusetts waters. The purpose of 322 CMR 12.00 is to:~~

~~(1) implement a 500 yard buffer zone and prohibit activities of vessels that affect large whales, including right whales, within waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth. 322 CMR 12.00 exempts vessels with federal or state Right Whale scientific study permits and commercial fishing vessels in the act of hauling back or towing gear. In addition, 322 CMR 12.00 applies to both commercial and recreational fishermen, but only to waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.~~

~~(2) minimize the risk of large whale entanglements, including right whales in waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.~~

~~(3) reduce interactions between harbor porpoise and commercial gillnet gear in waters under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth.~~

12.05: Speed Restrictions to Protect North Atlantic Right Whales

(1) Purpose and Scope. North Atlantic right whales are a critically endangered species. Annually they migrate through state waters and aggregate in Cape Cod Bay to feed during the late-winter and early-spring. In order to protect these whales from vessel strikes, the National Marine Fisheries Service promulgated regulations at 50 CFR 224.105 in 2008 that restrict the speed of vessels measuring at least 65 feet in overall length to ten knots while transiting certain waters around Cape Cod. In order to establish similar measures to prevent strikes of whales by vessels smaller than those regulated under the federal regulations, the Division of Marine Fisheries has established these seasonal vessel speed restrictions for Cape Cod Bay.
