Community Health Worker Education and Training Program Application Instructions

INTRODUCTION

272 CMR 5.00 establishes the minimum standards and procedures for approval of Community Health Worker Education and Training Programs (hereinafter CHW Training Programs) by the Board of Certification of Community Health Worker (hereinafter Board). In addition, the Board created sub-regulatory guidance on the criteria to be applied by the Board when reviewing training program applications. That guidance can be found here: www.mass.gov/service-details/laws-and-regulations-board-of-certification-of-community-health-workers.

APPLICATION PROCESS

CHW Training Programs applying for Board approval must complete the following:

- Board of Certification of Community Health Workers CHW Training Program Application and respond to any request of the board for more information.
- Division of Professional Licensure (DPL): Office of Private Occupational School Education Licensure Determination Form via the following web page:
<http://www.mass.gov/ocabr/docs/dpl/os/forms/licensure-determination-form.pdf>

Once submitted, the Bureau of Health Professions Licensure (hereinafter Bureau) will review the application for completeness. When the application is complete, the Board will review the application. If the Board or Bureau staff has questions about your application, you may be contacted during the review process and asked to appear at a Board meeting or to provide additional information. After review of the application and any additional materials submitted, the Board will then notify the program that it:

- 1) Is approved; or
- 2) Is denied approval. The notice will include both the reason and options for reapplication if applicable.
