APPLYING FOR ASSISTANCE

Landlords who own up to 20 housing units can apply directly for rental assistance on behalf of eligible residents. Tenants can also apply directly.

Coordinate with your Tenants

Landlords must obtain and submit a signed tenant consent form before applying for assistance.

Check if your Tenant has already applied

If your tenant has already submitted an application for rental assistance, please do not reapply. This could delay the approval process.

Ensure your Tenant is eligible

Tenant income eligibility limit is 80% of the Area Median Income (AMI) for assistance. You can check AMI limits in your city/town here.

If you believe your tenant may be eligible for rental assistance, you should:

1

Ensure your Tenant is income-eligible

Find the regional agency is your area, and determine income eligibility for the metro area of your property.

2

Ask your Tenant if they've applied

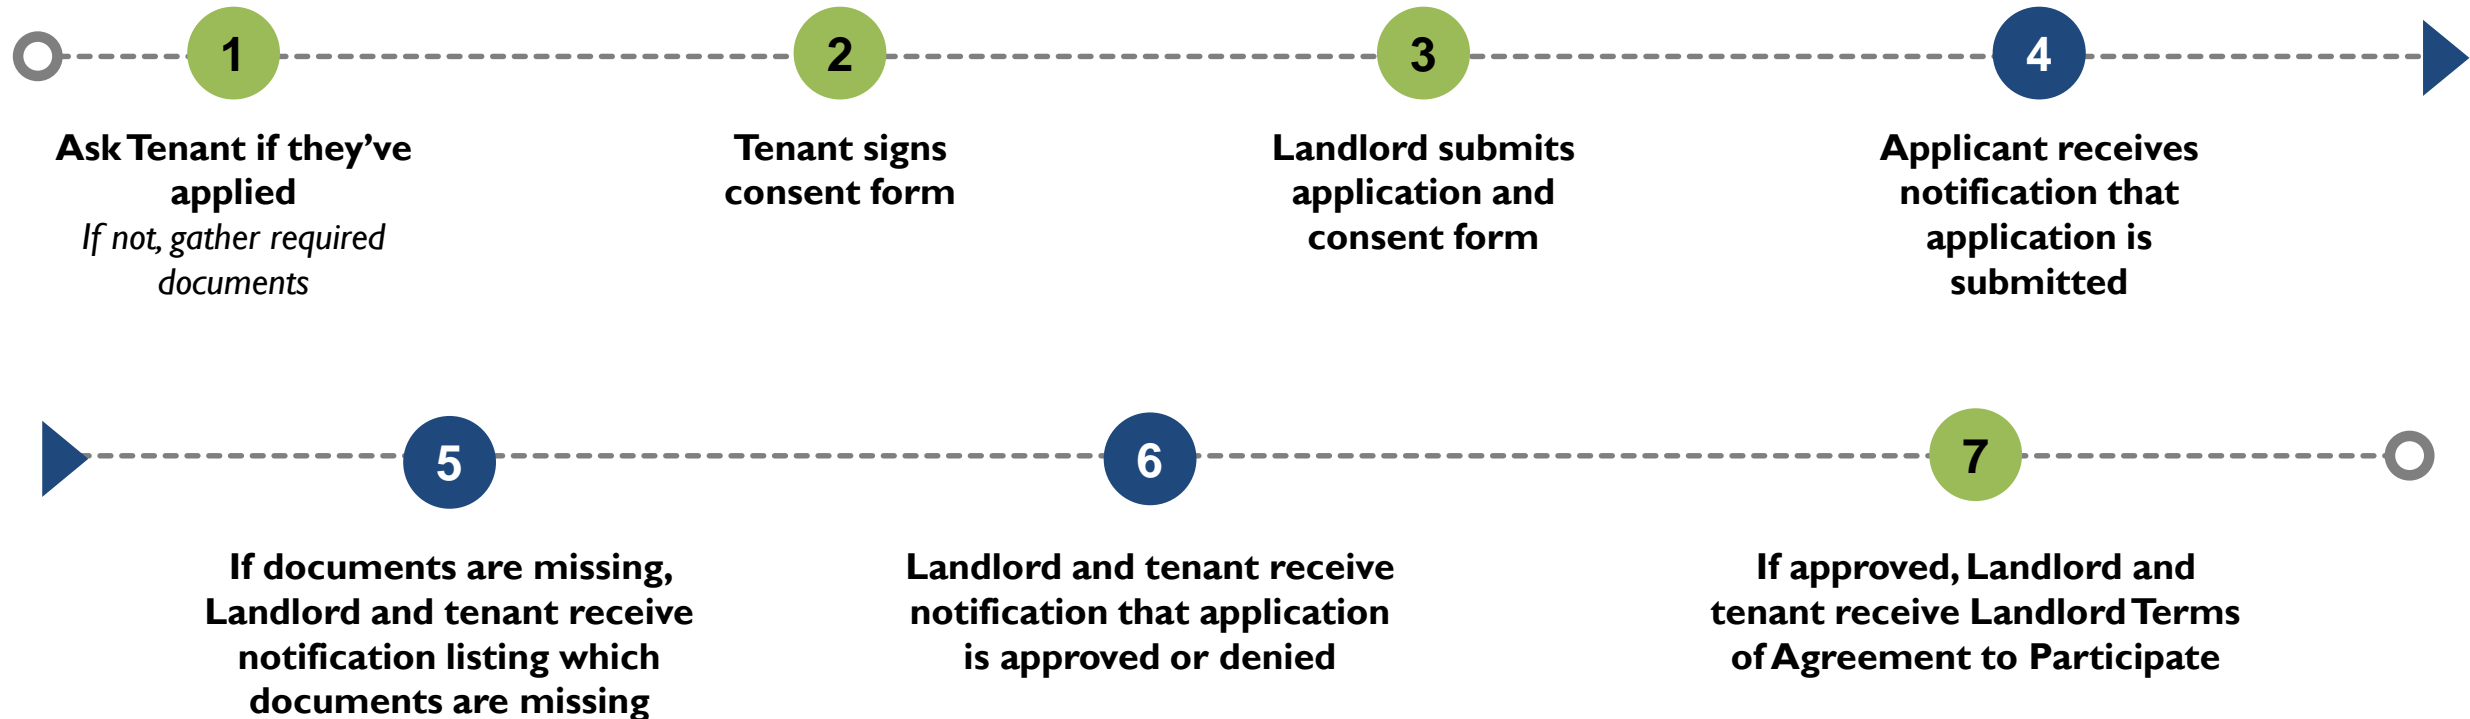

Find out whether your tenant has already submitted an application for rental assistance.

3

Start an Application

If your tenant has not applied, start an application by asking for your tenant to sign the required consent form that is available through the regional agency

See next slide for list of benefit programs

3

Verification in state databases for applicants who have received Unemployment Insurance (UI) or Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA)

If tenants do not meet one of the above, they can provide one of the following:

1

Proof of 2020 Annual Income
2020 Form 1040 (s)

Proof of Monthly Income
Tenants can still demonstrate income eligibility by submitting pay stubs, benefit award letters, etc.

Incomplete applications will be closed if documentation is not provided within 14 days of notification of missing documents.

Please ensure they have all documentation needed to apply.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

If I am a landlord who agrees to accept funding, do I lose my right to evict the tenant?

- A landlord who accepts ERAP funding does not lose the ability to file for eviction due to lease violations that may occur in the future. In all cases, the landlord enters into an agreement which provides that, so long as the tenant is paying the agreed upon monthly tenant share of rent and not violating other clauses of the lease, the landlord will not initiate an eviction.

- The landlord may file for eviction under the following situations:

During (or after) the ERAP period of agreement, the tenant violates a lease clause that is unrelated to payment of rent.

During (or after) the ERAP period of agreement, the tenant does not meet the monthly rent payment obligation that is stated in the agreement.

After the end of the ERAP period of agreement, the tenant does not pay rent or otherwise violates the lease.

Does a landlord have to agree to a proposed settlement that would involve forgiveness of arrearages or acceptance of reduced rent for the period of the agreement?

- Forgiveness of arrearages or acceptance of reduced rent are not program requirements.

What happens if a tenant moves out of the unit before the ERAP agreement ends?

- The rental assistance agreement includes the following line: “If the Participant's tenancy is terminated prior to the period for which any monthly rental stipend payments were made, I agree to return the unused balance of said funds to the Agency.”
- The onus is on the landlord to report a move-out to the Regional Administering Agency.

If a tenant's income increases, does the rental assistance agreement change?

- No, the agreement signed by the tenant and landlord remains in effect for its stated term, unless the parties agree to amend it.

Can a tenant apply for ERAP if they have already received up to $10,000 in RAFT or ERMA or HomeBASE benefits over the last 12 months?

- Yes. However, the ERAP will not pay for any period of rent already covered by RAFT, ERMA, or HomeBASE.
- Households may be eligible for up to 15 months of assistance from the ERAP program (up to 12 months of arrears plus an additional 3 months of stipends, if need is demonstrated and funds are available).

What if a tenant loses income and can't afford the rent they agreed to pay in the agreement?

- The tenant should contact the landlord and Regional Administering Agency. If both parties are amenable to changing the agreement, the tenant would not have to reapply, but they would need to execute a new agreement. The new agreement would still need to comply with all ERAP requirements.
- If the tenant is unable to pay their share and defaults on the rental assistance agreement, then a landlord can begin eviction proceedings, by issuing a Notice to Quit.
- NOTE: In some cases, the CARES Act may require a landlord to give 30 days' notice for nonpayment, depending on the type of financing that the landlord has and whether the landlord has sought mortgage forbearance – consult an attorney for guidance.
- NOTE: the CDC moratorium, which limits residential evictions for qualifying tenants, has been extended through the end of June, 2021.
