S.A.F.E. Funded Fire Safety Houses

A fire safety house is a mobile educational tool for teaching fire prevention and fire survival in an interactive way. Educators use the house to demonstrate specific fire safety behaviors and children then use the house to practice the behaviors. For example, children can practice escaping from a bedroom window through “pretend” smoke. The fun, make-believe exercises available in a fire safety house can prepare children to react safely and appropriately in case of an emergency. To use a fire safety house, call the contact person for your region.
