

The original source for data in this spreadsheet is a 2002 study for MassDEP by Draper/Lennon, Inc. titled Identification, Characterization, and Mapping of Food Waste and Food Waste Generators in Massachusetts. The final report from this study is available online at: <http://www.mass.gov/dep/about/priorities/foodwast.doc>. The data was updated in summer 2011 by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Region 1 office.

This study identified large generators of food waste in Massachusetts, such as food processors, wholesalers, grocery stores, institutions, and large restaurants. It calculated estimated food waste generation, shown in tons per year (TPY) in column G, and mapped generator locations to facilitate planning of programs and facilities for capturing source separated organic materials for composting or other diversion. Note that waste generation estimates are not available for food and beverage manufacturers/processors and distributors due to the variability in these sectors. In some other cases, generation estimates are not available for other facilities when data needed to estimate generation is missing for that location. Facility Category Codes in column F marked TYPE show generator groupings in the report as follows:

Type	Category Description
F	Food and Beverage
W	Manufacturers/Processors
IH	Wholesale Distributors
IS	Institutions -Healthcare Facilities
IC	Institutions -Independent Schools
IP	Institutions -Colleges/Universities
C	Institutions -Correctional Facilities
G	Resorts and Conference Facilities
R	Supermarkets and Grocery Stores
	Restaurants

Most of the columns in the spreadsheet are self-explanatory. Columns H, I, J, and K provide GIS mapping coordinates to assist in locating food waste generators. The Massachusetts State Plane coordinates found in the X_Coord and Y_Coord fields (Columns J and K) were derived by address-matching via Navteq Postal Villages. Manual interpolation placed some unmatched features on nearby streets. Lat/Long coordinates were derived by projecting the address-matched locations from Massachusetts State Plane, Mainland Projection, NAD 83 meters to WGS_1984 using the transformation NAD_1983_to_WGS_1984_1. The Status field denotes whether the potential food waste generator was definitively matched (M) or the highest ranking tie of one or more locations (T). All of the generators identified by EPA were located using the above methodology.
