1. The Stretch code should require All-Electric construction for residential new construction over 3,000 square feet. The current straw proposal requires All-Electric construction for buildings over 4,000 square feet.
2. All new construction using fossil fuel heating systems should require at least 50% of the building's energy load be produced by Solar PV generation onsite.
3. Thank you for including HERS retrofit standards for additions and alterations as over 80% of the buildings that will be in use in 2050 have already been built.
