Lynn’s waterfront developments and these funds will help make that a reality,” said state Rep. Brendan Crighton (D-Lynn) in a statement. “As a result of the improvements to the seawall, this boardwalk will be a great recreational destination for families, and also connect passengers with the Lynn Ferry terminal.”

State Rep. Daniel Cahill (D-Lynn) said in a statement that “we are grateful of the Seaport Economic Council’s decision to invest alongside the city of Lynn in this vital project that will jump start development while creating public access to our waterfront.”

“This grant funding is a great example of a win for everyone,” said state Rep. Lori Ehrlich (D-Marblehead). “Resilient infrastructure, public space, and private development coming together (will) improve the quality of life for all residents of Lynn. I look forward to this being one of many new and exciting projects in the city.” State Rep. Donald Wong (R-Saugus) said in a statement that “I’d like to thank the administration for this much-needed funding towards the seawall improvements, which will allow residents and visitors to take advantage and enjoy this natural resource.”

Six other communities were also awarded grants from the Seaport Economic Council for their initiatives to improve coastal public infrastructure and promote maritime economic development.

“The Seaport Economic Council provides coastal cities and towns the ability to advance community-driven efforts for economic development, including planning efforts to infrastructure construction,” said Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito, chairwoman of the Seaport Economic Council, in a statement.

“The varied needs of our communities are reflected in the awards announced today, from a harbor management plan in Dartmouth, to a life-guard station in Swansea and a critical seawall in Lynn. These projects will promote local growth and unlock economic potential,” Polito said.

Concert Singers announce 38th season

LYNN — The Concert Singers will launch their 38th season this fall by rehearsing a new program called “Holiday Music with Strings,” including the popular Bach Cantata 142, titled “Unto Us a Child is Born” as well as the Pergolesi “Magnificat,” pieces by Berlioz, John Rutter and others.

Holiday performances will be on Friday evening, Dec. 1, in Swampscott and Sunday afternoon, Dec. 3, in Lynn.

Being able to read music is not a requirement for membership in this community chorus.

A willingness to learn, an interest in choral music and rehearsal attendance are the only requirements. The rehearsal space and concert venues are both handicap-accessible.

Rehearsals start Sept. 5 and will be held every Tuesday evening from 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 101 Forest Ave., Swampscott. No auditions are required, just a willingness to attend rehearsals in September, October and November.

Open rehearsal dates are Sept. 5, 12 and 19 with the opportunity for anyone to meet the director and try out the music with no obligation whatsoever. Membership dues are modest, and each singer only pays for his music.

After Sept. 26, no new members will be admitted until January 2018 in preparation for the spring concerts.

The Concert Singers is conducted by William C. Sano, longtime faculty member of the Marblehead Public Schools and instructor of “Season at Symphony” in Swampscott. Sano is also a pianist and organist, and teaches for the Salem State “Explorers.”

He holds music degrees from Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio, and the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

Margaret J. Dee, a retired music teacher, is the Concert Singers accompanist.

Dee is also organist for Our Lady of the Assumption Church in Lynnfield.
