RE: Mandatory Ethics Training

DATE: January 14, 2016

The 2009 Ethics Reform Legislation (Chapter 28 of the Acts of 2009) created mandatory education and training requirements for all public employees, including Retirement Board Members and Board staff.

The Ethics Commission has ruled that Retirement Board Members and Board staff are municipal employees within the meaning of G.L. c. 268A (EC-COI-00-2). As a result, Retirement Board Members and Board staff must comply with the provisions of the ethics reform law. Please be advised that Retirement Boards that are State Agencies rather than local boards must comply with the specific instructions issued by the Ethics Commission for State Agencies. The law also provides that an employee of a private firm may also be a public employee for purposes of the conflict of interest law and the training and education requirements. If a Retirement Board contracts for the personal services of a particular individual employed by a private firm, then the particular employee is a public employee for purposes of the conflict of interest law. The Ethics Commission provides an example in its implementation memoranda:

[I]f a public agency hires a real estate consulting firm to provide development services, and the contract specifies that a particular partner will provide those services, then the partner is a public employee. By contrast, if a school department contracts with a school bus company to drive its students and the company can assign any of its drivers to do that work, the drivers are not public employees for conflict of interest law purposes.

Information on the implementation of this law can be found on the Ethics Commission website, <http://www.mass.gov/ethics/>.
