Our minimum combined labor time and travel time is 2.5 hours. After the initial 2.5 hours, we charge in increments of 15 minutes. Customer is only responsible for the actual amount of labor hours, plus travel time.

Travel Time Definition: Travel time is computed from the time the vehicle and helpers leave the company's offices to the time the vehicle and helpers arrive at the original point of loading. Travel time also includes the time the vehicle and helpers leave the final load destination until they arrive back at the company's offices.

Travel Time Calculation. All estimates will include a set amount for travel time, which will not be subject to adjustment that will cover travel time only. Company will determine travel time by determining the number of miles to be traveled that meet the above definition of travel time and then estimating the time it will take to travel that distance on the most direct route available to company's truck. Once company has determined that time, it will multiply that figure by the applicable hourly labor rate to arrive at the set travel time charge. Note that travel time between pickup and drop off of load is not included in the set travel time portion of the estimate. Travel time between pickup and drop off will be based upon actual time spent.

Labor Hours Definition: Unlike travel time, labor hour charges are subject to adjustment based upon actual hours. Labor hours are calculated as follows: Starting at the arrival at the at original point of loading, including travel from original loading point to any intermediate loading or unloading points, loading and or unloading at any intermediate destination points, and ending at the conclusion of unloading at final load destination point.

ADDITIONAL FEES. There will be a surcharge for any Highway Toll charges incurred during the course of the move. This includes the commute to the origin from our warehouse, the drive from the origin to the destination and from the destination back to our warehouse.

There will be a $12 flat fee environmental fee charge for every move, which is to offset the recycling of materials used during the move.
