Sawmill & Dry Kiln Directories

This directory contains listings for sawmills, portable bandmills and dry kilns located in Massachusetts. The master listings are alphabetical by county and contain production figures, equipment, and processing details. A list of sources of public and private assistance is also included, as well as a county map of Massachusetts. Timber harvesters are licensed in Massachusetts. The timber harvesters list is updated more frequently than this directory and should be requested separately.

Company listings are derived from available information and are offered without recommendations or preference. Any inaccuracy or omission is not a reflection on the integrity of that company's operation.

Periodic reprints and revisions of this directory will be made by the Department of Conservation and Recreation. Omissions or changes should be brought to the attention of: Marketing and Utilization Forester, Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation, 433 West St. Suite 8 Amherst MA. 01002.

A Look At The Industry

Although Massachusetts is the third most densely populated state in the nation, forests cover about 62% of the landscape, or 3.1 million acres. Forest classified as "timberland" covers about 52% of the land area, or 2.6 million acres.

These forests contain tree species highly valued for lumber and other wood products. The major softwood species harvested is white pine, used for furniture, millwork, and in industrial applications. Hemlock is utilized for dimension lumber, landscape ties, and pulp. Red pine that was planted during the 1930's is now being harvested and marketed, usually as landscape timbers, material for log homes and industrial wood fuel. The major hardwood species harvested in Massachusetts is red oak, prized for veneer, cabinetry and millwork. Other hardwoods harvested for high value products include sugar maple, white ash and black cherry. All the oaks, red and sugar maple, black, yellow and white birch, and beech are marketed for use in a variety of lower value products. Massachusetts' wood products are marketed regionally, nationally and internationally.

Production is concentrated in the western part of the state, in Worcester, Franklin, Hampshire, Hampden, and Berkshire counties. There were 94 confirmed active sawmills in Massachusetts in 1993, producing just over 100 million board feet of lumber. The 1996 survey indicated there were 88 sawmills active, producing about 104 million board feet, while the 2001 survey, lists 40 active sawmills and 18 portable bandmills with about 69 million board feet of production in that year.

This survey, conducted in 2005, reports the production of 49 active sawmills and 12 portable bandmills. The combined production of these mills totals 49 million board feet.

The 12 dry kiln businesses reporting varied in capacity from two-thousand board feet to 600 MBF. Among these kilns the proportion of independent operations to those associated with a mill was nearly equal.

How to Use the Directory Listings

Mill Type: circular headrig, band headrig or scrag mill

Annual Production: Refers to sawmill stated total purchases of logs for 2004.

Species:

AS	– Ash	BE	– Beech
BI	– Birch	HE	– Hemlock
OH	– Other Hardwoods	OS	– Other Softwoods
RM	– Red Maple	RO	– Red Oak
SM	– Sugar Maple	WO	– White Oak
WP	– Eastern White Pine

Products: Products manufactured as reported by sawmills including: Fuel wood, boards, long lumber, decking, flooring, pallet stock, quartersawn, siding, veneer, landscape ties, log home stock, boat lumber, clapboards, dimension (structural lumber, 2x), wood components (squares, parts), furniture, pulp, timbers, beams, craft items, fencing, handles, shavings, railroad ties, and kindling

Equipment: Major equipment capabilities reported by sawmills including: Resaw, Edger, Trimmer, Firewood Processor, Planer, Molder, Chipper, and Dry Kiln

Services: Processing services offered as reported by sawmills including: custom sawing, kiln drying, portable milling, custom planing or custom molding.

Note: Due to space limitations directory listings may not include all products, services or equipment that are available from a given sawmill. Please contact each sawmill directly for current products, services and capabilities.
