

Since when is placing impediments in the way of low income and community based solar projects a SMART idea? We are in the midst of a corporate hegemony that is so stupid, so irrational it seems ludicrous. We need more solar not less. We need more access, not less. We need to give low income people and community projects more viable ways of moving forward, not less. We need to grow solar production and grow solar jobs. This SMART program is STUPID.

Instead of putting the breaks on solar, place a fire under the utilities to upgrade and adapt; don't cap production at 320MW for incentive adders. Don't drain the incentive adders over time. Don't limit access to the upper echelons of society. Let's be a state where progress is measured in increased generation and increased access is the norm, not corporate profitability. Please, let's get really SMART.

Rev Dan Dibble
Warwick, MA