Executive Summary

JTF Results

During this reporting period, calendar year 2014, as a result of referrals and cooperative oversight, partner agencies recovered $20,110,438 in wage restitution, state taxes, unemployment taxes, fines, and penalties.¹ Unless otherwise noted, all references to funds recovered represent recoveries through the cooperative efforts of the JTF and represent monies above and beyond what the member agencies collected through their ordinary enforcement efforts. In calendar year 2014, the JTF received 122 complaints through the JTF referral phone line and online referral service, along with hundreds of complaints made directly to partner agencies. The work of the JTF agencies resulted in over 21,000 compliance checks and investigations in the 12-month period.

2014 total recoveries: $20,110,438
To-date recoveries: $76,021,822

For further details of each partner agencies’ participation, please see the “Partner Agency Enforcement Activity” section on pages 14–17.

Beginning with the 2013 Annual Report, activities will be reported on a calendar year cycle

The Issue in Massachusetts
The “underground economy” is a term that refers to those individuals and businesses that utilize schemes to conceal or misrepresent their employee population to avoid one or more of their employer responsibilities related to business laws and regulatory requirements. The underground economy encompasses other activities such as tax evasion, payroll fraud, “under-the-table” work, and wage theft. These activities may include but are not limited to: paying wages in cash, skimming some or all of the cash takings, not paying overtime, paying sub-minimum wages, charging individuals for transportation or supplies essential to the work, under-reporting employees, misclassifying employees as independent contractors, forcing employees to set up shell subcontractor entities, running a portion of normal business activities “off-the-books,” and not registering a business to avoid tax obligations or to avoid obtaining the necessary licenses and insurance policies. Some unscrupulous employers methodically operate this way as part of their business model; other employers may be unaware of legal requirements prescribed by employment laws or feel the financial pressure or incentive to cut corners in their business operations. For those employers who knowingly break the laws, the lure of greater profits, lower costs, and less responsibility for workers often drives their decision-making.
Impact to Law-Abiding Businesses:

By reducing the amount of money expended in a host of categories like wages, insurance, payroll taxes, licenses, employee benefits, materials and transportation, safety equipment, and safety conditions, these employers can gain a competitive advantage over companies that comply with business and tax laws and regulations. This results in unfair competition in the marketplace because law-abiding businesses must pay greater direct costs to stay in business and subsidize public benefits like health care, unemployment compensation, and workers’ compensation for those companies and individuals who do not play by the rules.

The underground economy also compromises the legitimate business community and the Massachusetts economy. Legitimate businesses are economically disadvantaged when competing with other companies who are able to charge less for their goods or services because they are not law abiding. Further, legitimate businesses subsidize those entities that do not follow the labor, licensing, and tax laws, as their tax dollars underwrite the systems that provide benefits to eligible workers when there is no employer of record to charge.

Impact to the Workers:

Individuals who perform work for businesses that do not comply with these laws are often and significantly negatively affected. These workers are often paid sub-minimum wage, receive no overtime, and may face barriers to receiving workers’ compensation and health care coverage, or be entirely ineligible for unemployment insurance (UI) or social security benefits. Their working conditions may not meet safety requirements, often putting them in danger. Their value is diminished and their ability to economically sustain themselves and their families is put in peril. As a result, other employers and taxpayers are required to indirectly subsidize these liabilities, in the form of workers’ compensation or UI coverage through employer funded trust funds, health care through publicly-subsidized care, and other state and federal subsidies.

Impact to the Commonwealth:

Taxpayers are also unduly burdened as many workers who are misclassified, paid below minimum wage, or are without employer-provided benefits often utilize existing social safety nets. Finally, the sheer number of workers who now fall into the underground economy puts stress on the social safety net and the underlying societal norms that we share.

Massachusetts communities are also adversely impacted by the underground economy. Consumers drive the demand for labor, goods, and services, and may unwittingly be contributing to the underground economy through their buying choices.

Collectively, the costs of the underground economy are high. Operating outside the law allows businesses to have an unfair advantage by illegitimately lowering costs, therefore undercutting their competitors. This takes business away from law-abiding companies and their employees who are trying to make an honest living. This race-to-the bottom hurts the economy, legitimate businesses, and results in the erosion of the social fabric, economic stability, wage levels, and working conditions in the Commonwealth.
History/Future

In March of 2008, Governor Deval Patrick signed Executive Order 499 which created the Joint Enforcement Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification (JTF or Task Force), in order to coordinate the Commonwealth’s efforts to eliminate employer fraud and employee misclassification. The Executive Order calls for the Task Force member agencies to address the underground economy cooperatively based on the following objectives:

- educate business owners and employees about applicable requirements;
- conduct joint, targeted investigations, and enforcement actions;
- protect the health, safety, wage, and benefit rights of workers;
- restore competitive equality for law-abiding businesses; and
- preserve taxpayer dollars and ensure proper payment of taxes.

On June 26th 2014, Governor Patrick signed into Law Chapter 144 “An Act Restoring the Minimum Wage and Providing Unemployment Insurance Reforms.” In addition to increasing the state’s minimum wage, the law also codified the Joint Task Force on the Underground Economy (JTF), making it a permanent fixture under the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development as the Council on the Underground Economy. The law requires that government agencies work together in a concerted manner to uncover businesses that conceal or misrepresent their employee population to circumvent their employer responsibilities related to business laws and regulatory requirements. The JTF has commenced hundreds of investigations and collected millions of dollars in tax obligations, wage restitution, fines, and penalties from dishonest employers. With the enactment of this law, the agency partners that comprise the JTF will become a permanent compliance unit to combat the underground economy. The Council on the Underground Economy will continue Massachusetts’ work to level the playing field by bringing businesses and individuals into compliance with applicable state labor, licensing, and tax laws. The law becomes effective March 24, 2015.

* State health insurance legislation (Chapter 58 of the Acts of 2006) enacted in April of 2006 contains obligations for Massachusetts’ employers who employ eleven (11) or more full-time equivalent (FTE) employees. Employers meeting this minimum employment threshold must file a Fair Share Contribution (FSC) report. Employers with eleven (11) or more FTE employees who do not make a “fair and reasonable contribution” to their employees’ health insurance, as defined in Division of Health Care Finance and Policy (DHCFP) regulation (114.5 CMR 16.00), are required to pay a per-employee FSC to the Commonwealth Care Fund, payable to Department of Unemployment Assistance (DUA). Recoveries listed are payments made on delinquent accounts prior to the dissolution. This Program was repealed in July of 2013. Past due revenue for FSC was tracked by DUA through 6/27/2014. As of 07/01/14, EOLWD Finance took over the debts owed to FSC, and as of that date, it no longer is considered a JTF effort.

 DIA has a complementary enforcement operation, and certain DIA recovered funds reported in Years 2, 3 and 4 came as a result of that operation. The DIA Office of Investigations, which works with the JTF investigative team, is responsible for ensuring that all employers operating in the Commonwealth carry workers’ compensation insurance at all times, pursuant to M.G.L. c. 152, §25A and §25C. Any employer that is found to be in violation of the statute is served with a stop work order (SWO). The SWO requires the business to close immediately upon service of the SWO and carries a fine of $100 per day until the employer presents proof of a valid policy and pays the fine. The DIA has assigned investigators to cover every city and town in the Commonwealth. These investigators continually examine businesses and organizations of every size and description in order to guarantee that all employers in Massachusetts comply with the law.
Noteworthy Accomplishments 2014
DUA Calendar Year 2014 Recoveries Exceed Calendar Year 2013 Results

The revenue audit team at DUA, working in conjunction with the Alcohol Beverages Control Commission (ABCC), Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance (DCAMM), Department of Career Services (DCS), Department of Industrial Accidents (DIA), and Department of Labor Standards (DLS) through a JTF effort, recovered $15,770,212 from employers in unpaid unemployment and fair share contributions in calendar year 2014. As part of their roles with the JTF, investigators and staff among these agencies conducted almost 21,000 cross-agency compliance checks. As a result of these checks, a number of businesses were found to be in violation of state law and were required to pay unemployment taxes owed in order to be considered for a state license or certification. Following is an accounting of DUA’s 2014 recoveries for previously unpaid UI Trust Fund contributions working with each of the agencies listed below. Compliance checks performed by these entities for licenses, certifications, grants, etc., resulted in DUA collections of the following:

Joint Enforcement Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification
Annual Report 2014
ABCC Licensing Compliance Checks Reap over $9.7M in Recovered Funds from Applicants Seeking Liquor Licenses

The state’s unemployment insurance department recovered $9,770,126 during calendar year 2014 through efforts by the ABCC to hold initial and renewal applications for liquor licenses, until applicants paid outstanding unemployment taxes due to the Commonwealth. Through this interagency collaboration, ABCC has truly leveled the playing field for businesses with liquor licenses, ensuring these businesses pay their fair share and do not gain a competitive advantage by illegally reducing their expenses.

DUA Identifies over 450 Misclassified Workers and $5.5 Million in Unreported Wages as a result of JTF Case Referrals

DUA’s revenue audit department reported that from JTF referrals alone, their office completed 50 audits. Twenty-five of the audits had findings, meaning that their office discovered new workers, the employer was under-reporting the number of employees or wages to DUA, and/or was misclassifying workers as independent contractors. The audits uncovered nearly 450 new workers and approximately $5.5 million dollars in unreported wages.

Among DUA’s findings in these audits:

- A mobile software technology company which misclassified 125 workers and under-reported wages of over $900,000.
- An landscaping company which failed to report any wages for 75 workers and under-reported wages of over $500,000.
- A brick and stone wholesaler and installer which misclassified wages for 48 workers and under-reported wages of over $300,000.

As a result of the audits, all three of the businesses engaged in swift action to achieve compliance. They began properly classifying employees and made payments for the unpaid Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund obligations they owed. These audits and subsequent compliance demonstrate that the collective authority of the JTF results in fruitful investigations, greater compliance, and may serve as a deterrent to misclassification by other companies when they see the costs of getting caught trying to cheat the system.

Prevailing Wage, False Record Keeping, Overtime, and False Claims Violations Revealed on Public Jobs

In December 2014, the Office of the Attorney General’s - Fair Labor Division (AGO-FLD) successfully settled a major case against an Ohio-based painting company which paid more than $2 million in restitution to settle claims that it violated Massachusetts prevailing wage and overtime laws, and engaged in unfair business practices and violated the Massachusetts False Claims Act. The settlement resolved a lawsuit filed by AGO-FLD in May 2013 in Suffolk Superior Court, alleging that M&J Painting, Inc. (M&J) and its owner, Michael Kerpelis, intentionally failed to pay all wages to employees and knowingly submitted false payroll records in support of its claims for payment on a public construction contract. The settlement provides more than $2 million in restitution to workers on the Braga Bridge painting project in Fall River.
In November 2008, M&J was selected from among six bidders to work on the Braga Bridge painting project, a $13 million public construction project in Fall River and Somerset. In May 2011, the AGO-FLD received complaints alleging that M&J was not paying some of its employees for all of their hours on the project. Through its investigation the Attorney General’s Office determined that from March 2010 to November 2011, M&J knew how many hours its employees were working, but failed to pay dozens of its workers for all hours worked. As a result, M&J failed to pay employees more than $2 million in prevailing wages and overtime wages. The Attorney General’s lawsuit alleged that during the course of the project, M&J submitted certified payroll records weekly asserting it was paying its employees the prevailing wage for all hours worked. The AGO-FLD investigation determined that M&J knowingly underreported the hours worked by dozens of its employees to give the appearance that it was in compliance with the wage and hour laws. The lawsuit alleged further that by misrepresenting how workers would be compensated, M&J engaged in a deceptive and unfair trade practice which violated the Commonwealth’s Consumer Protection Act. M&J was also alleged to have knowingly submitted false certified payroll records to the awarding authority that grossly understated the total number of hours worked by M&J employees, in violation of the Massachusetts False Claims Act.

The Massachusetts prevailing wage and record-keeping laws apply to all construction work performed on public works projects in Massachusetts. The prevailing wage laws allow all contractors bidding on public works projects to enjoy a “level playing field” by standardizing the rate of pay the workers will earn. The record-keeping law allows state agencies to monitor the spending of taxpayer monies on public construction projects. The overtime law requires employers to pay employees covered by the law at time and one half their regular rate of pay for all hours of 40 hours per week. A company’s failure to pay its employees the state prevailing wage for work performed at a public construction site, failure to pay overtime or to abide by the record keeping requirements can result in both civil and criminal penalties against the company and its owners. Passed in 2000, the False Claims Act authorizes the Attorney General to sue entities that submit false claims for payment to the state government or its political subdivisions on contracting and purchasing issues.

Drywall Contractor Debarred for Violating Prevailing Wage Laws and Apprentice Standards

In December 2014, R&A Drywall and Vitale were ordered to pay more than $200,000 in wage restitution and monetary penalties for violating the Massachusetts prevailing wage and record keeping laws. Both have been cited for failing to pay the proper prevailing wages and for intentionally failing to turn over payroll records to the Attorney General in its investigation of violations at the Quincy College Coddington Hall public works project (“Quincy Project”), and the Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance’s Parcel 7 Fit Out-Renovation public works project (“Haymarket Station”), in Boston. R&A Drywall and Vitale have also been debarred for one year from the date of the citations by the Attorney General for failing to comply with those citations, meaning neither may submit bids to be hired to perform work on any public works projects in Massachusetts. The AGO-FLD initiated an investigation after receiving separate referrals from the JTF and the New England Regional Council of Carpenters alleging that R&A Drywall, LLC and its owner, Alan Vitale, of Goffstown, NH, were not properly paying workers who were performing carpentry work under the prevailing wage laws. The AGO-FLD investigation confirmed that R&A Drywall and Vitale underpaid employees as apprentices performing carpentry work while the company lacked a qualified apprentice program and underpaid other employees below the required hourly rate for carpentry work.
Local, State, and Federal Investigation of Sub-Standard Living and Working Conditions at a Deerfield Farm

Two employees of the Bar-Way Farm in Deerfield, MA filed a complaint with Department of Career Services (DCS) alleging that the housing facility offered by the employer was plagued with numerous violations. DCS referred the matter to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH) and coordinated with the U.S. DOL’s Wage and Hour Division (WHD) regarding violations of the minimum wage requirements. WHD completed their investigation and recovered approximately $3,600.00 in back wages for workers.

In August 2013, DCS, DPH and the Town inspector completed an inspection of the housing facility located in South Deerfield and identified over 47 violations of the State Sanitary Code. The issues included lack of potable water, raw human sewage in the basement and the water well due to a backup of the sewage system, failure to provide a working toilet, lack of smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, serious infestation of bees and rodents, and issues with the roof, floors, windows, ceilings, and walls. During the investigation, the complainants continued to work for Bar-Way Farm and resided at a local motel paid for by the employer.

With the assistance of Community Legal Aid in Northampton, the two employees filed a lawsuit in Housing Court against the employer in October 2013. This lawsuit was withdrawn toward the end of the month because the two sides reached an agreement.

DCS and DPH continued to work with the employer and conducted a series of inspections to ensure that corrective action was fully implemented. Finally, in February 2014 the final inspection was conducted and the employer was granted a Certificate of Occupancy for the property in question.

Coordinated Field Investigations Prove Fruitful for the JTF

In November 2014, the JTF conducted a coordinated field investigation at a large residential development construction site located in Worcester, Massachusetts as a result of a tip that contractors onsite were misclassifying employees as independent contractors. As a result of the investigation, the Department of Industrial Accidents issued three stop work orders. The Division of Professional (DPL) is filing a complaint against the Master Electrician on site and the electrical contractor, asking that he surrender his Master Electrician license as a result of apprentices working out of ratio. In addition, DPL is filing an administrative violation to the corporate office for having a wrong address on file. A case like this highlights the fact that often when an unscrupulous employer is cutting compliance corners with one law, it is likely to be violating other laws as well.

Codification of the Joint Task Force into the Council on the Underground Economy

On June 26th 2014, Governor Deval Patrick signed into Law Chapter 144 “An Act Restoring the Minimum Wage and Providing Unemployment Insurance Reforms.” In addition to increasing the state’s minimum wage, the law also codified the Joint Task Force on the Underground Economy (JTF), making it a permanent fixture under the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development as the Council on the Underground Economy. The law ensures that government agencies work together in a concerted manner to uncover businesses that conceal or misrepresent their employee population to circumvent their employer responsibilities related to business laws and regulatory requirements. The JTF, established by the Governor in 2008 under Executive Order 499, has to date commenced hundreds of investigations and collected millions of dollars in tax obligations, wage restitution, fines, and penalties from unscrupulous employers. With the enactment of this law, the agency partners that comprise the JTF will become a permanent compliance unit to combat the underground economy. The Council on the Underground Economy will continue Massachusetts’ work to level the playing field by bringing businesses and individuals into compliance with applicable state labor, licensing and tax laws. The law becomes effective March 24, 2015.

OSHA Settlement Agreement with Employer includes a Requirement for State Training on Temporary Worker Rights

OSHA has recognized that temporary workers are becoming more commonplace within today’s various workplaces, and as a result of data showing that temporary workers have suffered a number of serious occupational injuries, they developed a Temporary Worker Initiative which focuses on compliance with safety and health requirements when temporary workers are employed at a host employer site. According to OSHA, “While the extent of responsibility under the law of staffing agencies and host employers is dependent on the specific facts of each case, staffing agencies and host employers are jointly responsible for maintaining a safe work environment for temporary workers —including, for example, ensuring that OSHA’s training, hazard communication, and recordkeeping requirements are fulfilled.”

DLS has administrative and enforcement responsibility for a state law that requires licensure and registration of employment, placement, and staffing agencies. In January, 2013, a second law affecting the temporary staffing industry became effective: the Temporary Workers Right to Know Law (TWRTK) which requires staffing agencies to provide basic information about the job to which individuals are being assigned. The job information may be shared over the telephone but must be confirmed in writing to the worker before the end of the first pay period. During the Spring of 2014, OSHA, DLS, and the AGO-FLD teamed up to offer training sessions across the Commonwealth to educate client companies/host employers and owners of temporary staffing agencies and other interested parties of their responsibilities to their workers with regard to both OSHA and state law.

In a JTF collaboration, federal OSHA and state DLS coordinated a successful enforcement action after OSHA cited a framing contractor and a temporary staffing agency for not training temporary employees in safe work procedures. OSHA and the contractor came to a settlement agreement that required the employer to conduct general construction safety training for the temporary worker staffing agencies they utilized. In addition, OSHA required the contractor to participate in a joint training program conducted by DLS. The purpose of this training was to provide information about the requirements of the TWRTK Law to the client company, staffing agency, and the temporary workers. DLS will continue to develop this relationship with OSHA as they continue their temporary worker safety initiative, by being available to provide joint training sessions and to be a resource for businesses engaging temporary workers. DLS and OSHA have developed a joint referral process so that each agency can share inspection and investigation information with the other as each agency enforces their own laws and regulations. In 2014, DLS has investigated four cases where, in addition to finding TWRTK law violations, were made aware of unsafe working conditions by the temp workers. These cases were referred to OSHA for their investigation.

Renewal of a Common Interest Agreement with US DOL

In November 2014, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through the Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development and the US DOL renewed a 3-year Common Interest Agreement. The initiative commits the agencies within the US DOL to work with the agencies of the JTF which, since its inception, has collected nearly $76 million from holding unscrupulous businesses accountable for fraudulent activities. The agreement was renewed on November 17th 2014.

In making the announcement, US Labor Secretary Thomas Perez commented, “Combating worker misclassification is one of several important strategies the U.S. Department of Labor is using to promote shared prosperity and to help ensure that our economy works for everyone, which is why we are excited to renew this agreement with the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Workforce Development. The renewal of this agreement will allow us to continue to coordinate and ensure compliance with both federal and state laws alike.”

JTF Takes a Lead Role in Raising Awareness of Labor Trafficking

On November 21, 2011, Governor Deval Patrick signed into law House Bill 3808, An Act Relative to the Commercial Exploitation of People. The law took effect February 19, 2012. The Law established new crimes of human trafficking for sexual servitude and forced labor, enticement of a child by means of electronic communication, and organ trafficking; increased penalties for existing crimes; instituted requirements for reporting of trafficking victims by mandated reporters; provided a safe harbor provision for child victims; established a trust fund for victims of trafficking to which forfeited assets from trafficking offenses will be deposited; and mandated an inter-agency task force on human trafficking.

The Massachusetts Interagency Human Trafficking Policy Task Force (Task Force) chaired by Massachusetts Attorney General Martha Coakley and consisting of nineteen members representing government, law enforcement, academia, service providers, legal services, and advocacy, convened on February 29, 2012. Chapter 178 of the Acts of 2011 directed the Task Force to submit a report of its findings and recommendations to the clerks of the senate and house of representatives who shall forward the report to the chairs of the joint committee on the judiciary not later than 18 months after the effective date of this act. The Task Force shall determine if subsequent reports are necessary in order to properly address human trafficking.

On August 19, 2013, Attorney General Coakley released a report of the findings and recommendations of the Task Force. Recommendations were made according to broad subject areas from sub-committees which focused on particular aspects of human trafficking:

- Victim Services
- Demand Reduction
- Data Collection and Information Sharing
- Education and Training
- Public Awareness

The report provided a road map for Massachusetts to address human trafficking by identifying achievable goals that would be effective in combating the scourge of trafficking. One of the findings from the Task Force was that a group should specifically be formed to study the issue of labor trafficking and consider making recommendations to the Task Force Chair for potential inclusion as an addendum to the Task Force report.

On January 16, 2014, the Labor Trafficking Sub-Committee of the Human Trafficking Policy Task Force was formed and met seven times since its formation. Members of the sub-committee included:

- Deb Bercovitch, Chief of the Human Trafficking Unit, Office of the Attorney General
- Drew Cahill, Assistant Attorney General, Office of the Attorney General
- Shawn Croke, Investigator, Division of Professional Licensure
- Julie Dahlstrom, Managing Attorney, Ascentria Care Alliance (formerly Lutheran Social Services of New England) and the Boston University School of Law Human Trafficking Clinic
• Lydia Edwards, Equal Justice Works Fellow, Greater Boston Legal Services
• Kristen Gordon, Director of Human Trafficking Policy, Programming, and Education, Office of the Attorney General
• Diego Low, Executive Director, Metrowest Worker Center
• Mirna Montano, Organizer, Massachusetts Coalition for Occupational Safety and Health
• Audrey Richardson, Senior Attorney, Greater Boston Legal Services
• Heather Rowe (Chair), Director, Department of Labor Standards, Joint Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification
• Georgia Simpson-May, Director, Office of Health Equity, Department of Public Health

Administrative and research assistance for the committee was provided by:

• Melissa Butts, Program Coordinator, Joint Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification
• Christina Wescott, Management Analyst, Department of Labor Standards

The committee members engaged nationally-recognized experts throughout the year to assist them in understanding the different aspects of labor trafficking. Ultimately, the committee made over 25 recommendations for consideration by the Attorney General in a report filed in October 2014, to address labor trafficking in Massachusetts.

Research Study on Employee Misclassification and the Underground Economy in Massachusetts

A research study to review the current state of the underground economy in Massachusetts got underway during 2013, through a partnership among DOR, DUA, and the JTF. The study’s purpose was to estimate the frequency, scale, and consequences of misclassification and the underground economy on the Commonwealth. Revenue Solutions, Inc. (RSI) was selected by DOR as a partner of the JTF, to undertake the analysis and write a report of their findings. The RSI report provides a detailed description of the specific aims and analyses they undertook. The JTF created a Technical Advisory Board (TAB) which consisted of David Weil, Ph.D., and James Rebitzer, Ph.D., who, combined, have over 30 years of experience in administering, developing, performing, publishing, and presenting research related to the economy and workplace issues, to work with the RSI team during their analysis. Because of the confidentiality of the data, the TAB could not and did not participate in the creation of the data set or the analysis of the data. It did provide, through a series of meetings with the JTF and RSI throughout the study period, responses and suggestions regarding the analysis. The TAB was also charged with writing an independent assessment of the study findings based on RSI’s final report to the JTF. The TAB delivered their final report to the JTF on March 31, 2014.

The study resulted in a description of the current degree and volume of contracting in the Massachusetts economy, including an analysis of the fiscal impact caused by employee misclassification on state tax revenues and the unemployment insurance tax system. The key findings of the report were:

• The report estimates an average annual loss of unemployment insurance taxes at $87 million; a total of close to $950 million over the study period, due to misclassification or non-reporting of employees.
• In 2001, contractors associated with a singular contract relationship accounted for 66.3% of all contracting relationships, whereas in 2010, this ratio had grown to 82%. The TAB reports that this suggests a change in the nature of contracting evidenced during the study period.
• Businesses that misclassify pay workers about 14% less than those that do not misclassify. This is true for both their contractors and their employees.

• Businesses using contractors exhibited misclassification and/or underreporting of wages at rates TWICE that of other audited establishments not using contractors.

The JTF hopes to engage in talks with DOR about how to make the data warehouse available to the robust research and academic community here in Massachusetts, because the study project assembled a data warehouse of eleven years’ worth of data of contracting in Massachusetts—something which has never been compiled before.

Cross-Agency Training

The Task Force partner agencies remain committed to cross agency education and training to ensure that our investigative agencies are familiar with each other’s processes and enforcement authority. In 2014, DOR continued to offer its employee training and development programs to the Joint Task Force investigative team when training slots were available. In addition, DOR University was launched which will provide e-learning tools for JTF members. More courses will be added in the future that will be beneficial to JTF member agencies. This very successful partnership allowed JTF partners to take courses that may not have otherwise been available to them.

In addition to DOR training, DLS offered OSHA 10 (construction) training to JTF partner agencies and their investigators. As a result, many investigators from our partner agencies are OSHA 10 certified which will assist them in identifying and reporting workplace hazards while on an inspection.

Cross-training and awareness initiatives assist JTF agencies in operating in an efficient and coordinated manner by providing opportunities for agencies to identify potential cooperative methods. Cross-agency training helps to increase investigators’ awareness of the requirements placed on employers by their sister agencies and encourage inter-agency referrals.

JTF: The Process

Reporting Suspected Cases of Fraud and Misclassification to the Task Force

The website of the Joint Enforcement Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification, www.mass.gov/lwd/jtf, provides information about the underground economy and how to take action when it comes to getting help with suspected cases of workplace fraud and employee misclassification. The website provides the public with a form that can be completed and submitted to the JTF for suspected cases of fraud and misclassification. The JTF anonymous referral telephone line, 1-877-96-LABOR, provides another avenue for individuals to provide information on the underground economy to JTF partner agencies.

The existence of the JTF makes reporting suspect business practices easier for the public. To report employer fraud, an individual may have previously needed to call up to 10 different tip lines. With the JTF, an individual can report an employer paying wages in cash, safety concerns, wage and hour violations, insurance premium avoidance, and non-licensure, all in one place. The information is then dispatched to the agency that handles the non-compliance allegation for further investigation.
JTF Referral Investigations

JTF partner agencies that have enforcement authority over underground economy matters have tracked their activities with regard to JTF referrals and resulting investigations. During 2014, JTF reviewed referrals and opened agency investigations when appropriate. These investigations, conducted on top of the agencies’ independent investigatory and enforcement work, ranged from single-agency audits to multi-agency actions, with results ranging from stop work orders issued, to owed monies recovered, to prosecution of persons for egregious infractions, to no violations found. It should be noted that since white-collar crime investigations can require months of investigation and/or litigation, the results of many investigations may not be available until long after referrals are made. Those complaints that were not investigated either lacked sufficient information for follow-up or lacked relevance to the mission of the JTF.

In addition to the monetary recoveries, the JTF has opened the doors for agency collaboration that, in many ways, is unprecedented. This has allowed agencies to have quality tips provided, share resources, and reduce duplicative efforts. While each participating agency has the ability to recoup revenue on its own, our collective efforts provide greater enforcement and compliance; yields significantly more in revenue for the Commonwealth; and delivers better outcomes for both employees and employers in the state. The JTF continues to successfully work together to confront fraud and abuse among employers, to provide an equal playing field for businesses to compete, and to protect workers.

JTF Compliance Checks

JTF partner agencies’ collaboration goes beyond the coordination of JTF referrals and investigations. The JTF has also facilitated the implementation of numerous cooperative oversight processes, resulting in over 21,000 compliance checks amongst agencies in 2014, to assist in enforcement against employers violating Massachusetts tax, employment, and licensing laws. A compliance check occurs when a single JTF partner agency reviewing an employer’s conduct for purposes of an ongoing investigation, license application, license renewal, procurement certification, credential, grant, or other benefit, inquires as to whether other JTF partner agencies have noncompliance matters relative to that particular employer. Cooperative oversight in the form of JTF compliance checks has proven to be an important tool for many of the Commonwealth’s agencies.

Partner Agency Enforcement Activity

Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC), which investigates applications for liquor licenses, prosecutes violations of pertinent statutes and regulations, and adjudicates disputes among members of the industry, participated in the recovery of just under $9 million for the state’s UI Trust Fund, and assisted JTF agencies in reviewing investigations relative to employers maintaining or applying for a liquor license in the Commonwealth.

Attorney General’s Office - Fair Labor Division (AGO-FLD) reviewed all relevant JTF complaints for potential violations of minimum wage and child labor laws; nonpayment of wages, prevailing wage violations; misclassification of employees; overtime pay violations; payroll record keeping and temp worker right-to-know violations; workers’ compensation, and unemployment insurance fraud. The AGO-FLD undertook numerous investigations that originated from JTF referrals and employee misclassification complaints, yielding both civil and criminal enforcement actions. Included amongst these efforts, the AGO-FLD issued 45 civil citations with restitution and penalty orders totaling over $333,000; 28 of the 45 citations came as a result of referrals from the JTF. Including restitution and penalties paid as a result of settlements, the AGO-FLD returned well over $2M to workers and the state in JTF-related matters.
Department of Industrial Accidents (DIA) reviewed all relevant complaints received by the JTF and checked each referred employer for workers’ compensation insurance coverage. Based upon the review and investigation of all JTF referrals in calendar year 2014, DIA issued 73 stop work orders for lack of workers’ compensation coverage. As a result, 131 workers were newly covered by workers’ compensation policies and DIA received $36,950 in fines. In its complementary enforcement actions by DIA investigators during calendar year 2014, DIA conducted 95,478 compliance checks, 5,998 investigations, and issued 2,200 stop work orders for lack of workers’ compensation insurance, which resulted in $1,140,300 in fines and 5711 workers brought under insurance coverage. Had any of those uncovered workers sustained an accident on the job, they would have turned to the state’s Workers’ Compensation Insurance Trust Fund to cover their weekly benefits and medical expenses; this represents an unfair dynamic for businesses that are dutifully paying their insurance premiums and operate in compliance with the state’s workers’ compensation laws.

Department of Labor Standards (DLS) assisted DUA in recovering just under $1,860,650 in unpaid unemployment insurance obligations through a joint operation during 2014. DLS also investigated complaints referred by the JTF alleging misconduct on the part of employment or temporary staffing agencies, temporary workers right to know law violations, asbestos and lead paint related licensing, and apprentice training programs. DLS investigated 11 complaints referred by the JTF alleging misconduct on the part of employment or temporary staffing agencies, temporary workers right to know law violations, asbestos and lead paint related licensing, and apprentice training programs.

The DLS investigated five referrals where complainants alleged violations by employment, placement, or staffing agencies and the Temporary Workers Right To Know law. Of the five, one company was found to be operating without the proper license or registration, and was issued a written warning and ordered to apply for its credential. After conducting investigations, no further action was warranted on the remaining four referrals.

DLS also investigated five possible lead-safe renovation/construction complaints resulting from JTF referrals in 2014. One painting contractor was found working at a job site and operating without the required Lead-safe Renovation license. Once cited, the contractor immediately applied for his license with the department. DLS investigated another complaint regarding a roofing contractor that was not using proper fall protection. DLS found four workers at the site and contacted OSHA, who later arrived and performed a site visit while work was still being done. DLS inspected three other sites, but no work was occurring at the time of the inspection. One of these complaints was against a contractor that had been cited in 2011 by DLS. This information was shared by DLS with all of the JTF investigative agencies.

DLS participated in two coordinated field investigations where DLS checked for construction/trench safety and workers being provided by temporary staffing agencies. In both operations, there were no violations observed. DLS provided enforcement information regarding an asbestos contractor that was looking to become DCAMM certified. The contractor had been cited by DLS in 2012 but had defaulted on his fine. In order for the contractor to become DCAMM certified, he had to pay his fine to DLS and pay his outstanding unemployment taxes. In another situation, DLS referred an unlicensed painting contractor who defaulted on a civil penalty to the JTF investigative team so that their field teams could be on the lookout for the contractor engaged in active work. These are prime examples of the kind of inter-agency coordination that the JTF fosters which only serves to level the playing field for law-abiding businesses.

Department of Revenue (DOR) reviewed and closed 120 cases that were referred from the JTF that resulted in the assessment $826,324 of additional tax, interest, and penalties in 2014. There are also 54 JTF cases totaling $300,000 - $500,000 still in progress that should be assessed in calendar year 2015. The DOR continues to identify and audit businesses that have misclassified workers and have underreported/not filed employment taxes.
Department of Unemployment Assistance (DUA) reviewed all relevant JTF referrals looking for Unemployment Insurance (UI) Trust Fund and Fair Share Contribution (FSC) violations such as failure to file, underreporting, failure to register, and/or failure to pay in full. DUA recovered $15,770,212 in unpaid employer contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund and FSC through referrals and compliance cross-checks with the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC), Commonwealth Corporation (COMM. CORP), Department of Labor Standards (DLS), Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance (DCAMM), Department of Industrial Accidents (DIA), and Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development (EOLWD).

Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance (DCAMM), in 2014, assisted the Commonwealth in recovering $1,043,766 from applicants for DCAMM contractor certification found not to be in compliance with DUA at the time of application. This was accomplished by sending notices to applicants that they must settle their DUA obligation before they can be eligible for DCAMM certification to bid on Chapter 149 public building construction contracts. DCAMM halts the certification process for any contractors that have not brought themselves into compliance with DUA obligations and denies these applications from certification. The increase in 2014 in the number of contractors brought into DUA compliance in part reflects DCAMM’s attention to assuring that non-Massachusetts contractors fulfill their legal obligation of registering with DUA.

During 2014, DCAMM denied certification to three applicants and, further, administratively closed 39 application files without issuance of requested certificates for various reasons, including, for example, the applicant’s failure to resolve outstanding DUA liabilities, excessive prevailing wage violations, poor performance and supervision, non-compliance, and mistreatment of sub-contractors. This record of achievement is attributable to DCAMM’s insistence, as a condition to certification, that applicants strictly comply with internal certification requirements, and to interagency enforcement with DUA and other JTF-participating agencies. DCAMM’s practice of requiring that applications for renewal of certification be submitted at least three months prior to expiration of the applicant’s current certificate also provides ample time for assuring such compliance and/or correction of non-compliance.

Additionally, each contractor’s application is checked against DCAMM’s internal JTF case-tracking database, and on a weekly basis, a list of all contractor applicants received is sent to all JTF partner agencies to inquire whether any other agency is working on any matters relating to the applicant.

Division of Professional Licensure (DPL) The Division of Professional Licensure (DPL) investigated all JTF referrals involving unlicensed individuals or businesses performing services that require professional licensure by the Commonwealth. In conjunction with DIA, DPL investigators also inspected 10 massage therapy establishments in Acton, Barnstable, Boston, and Hyannis in 2014. As a result of the inspections, numerous individuals working at the targeted establishments were cited for the unlicensed practice of massage therapy or the operation of an unlicensed establishment, resulting in the issuance of $13,500 in fines. DPL also investigated several licensed electricians in Worcester, for failure to properly supervise unlicensed apprentices working under their supervision.

Insurance Fraud Bureau (IFB) Of the referrals received in 2014 from the JTF that had allegations of Insurance Fraud, 25 were accepted. In 2014, the IFB in collaboration with multiple state and federal investigative and prosecutorial agencies investigated 11 workers’ compensation premium evasion cases that had evidence of hidden payroll schemes. One such case involves Elburke Lamson, who was indicted on two counts of workers’ compensation fraud and two counts of larceny over $250. The defendant was operating as the manager of Legal Pro Temps, Inc., a now defunct staffing company, located in Dorchester. In an effort to evade high insurance premiums, the defendant allegedly underreported or failed to report his payroll to his insurance company. Legal Pro Temps, Inc., allegedly operated with a payroll totaling more than $2 million billed through its vendors, but only reported a payroll totaling more than $184,000. As a result of this premium avoidance scheme, Lamson underpaid his workers’ compensation insurer more than $45,000 in premium payments.
In the past five years, the Insurance Fraud Bureau of Massachusetts has continued to forge successful working relationships within the insurance industry as well as with local, state, and federal agencies. The IFB has continued to expand our presence throughout the state. IFB staff has been drawn on to speak at the local, state, and national level on insurance fraud related topics. Our focus on prevention and deterrence of insurance fraud has led us to provide numerous educational programs available to insurance, law enforcement and other professional organizations.

Over the past five years, we have seen a growing trend involving temporary employment agencies and related businesses. We have tailored industry training to assist auditors and agents on how to recognize hidden payroll and other premium evasion schemes. Our goal continues to be meaningful sentences; in recent years, we have seen significant prison sentences in workers’ compensation cases ordered, ranging from 1 to 10 years in federal prison. The IFB continues to have success in criminal investigations, referring over 1,200 cases for prosecution between 2009 and 2014; the number increasing with each year.

2014 Goals and Initiatives

Now in its seventh year, the JTF remains focused on increasing the volume and impact of cross-agency enforcement. This will be accomplished by building on the existing processes by which partner agencies conduct cooperative investigations. These efforts raise awareness in the general public, the business community, and within government, about the work of the JTF agencies to combat the underground economy and the responsibilities of employers in the Commonwealth. There are a number of key initiatives being undertaken by the JTF in furtherance of these goals.

Strategic Goals

The JTF continues to work toward furtherance of its goals:

- Increasing education, coordination and enforcement of the state’s labor, licensing, and tax laws through the work of the Underground Economy Task Force;
- Increasing revenue recovery through enforcement by inspection, audit, and information-sharing;
- Leveling the playing field for employers by publicizing JTF enforcement successes that will serve as a deterrent to cutting corners on labor, licensing, and tax laws;

MassResults Strategic Plan 2013-2015

The MassResults program brings together key initiatives focused on making state government more effective, more accountable and more open – delivering better results for the public.

EOLWD’s Goals:

- Protect Worker Safety, Health, Wages and Working Conditions
- Better Labor Market Data
- Maximize Job Placement and Hiring
- Increase Youth Employment
- Shrink Underground Economy
- Public Sector Labor Stability
- Financial Relief Following Job Loss
- Align Skill Sets of Unemployed with Employer Demand
- Compensation for Workplace Injury

Joint Task Force’s Goals:

- Increase education, coordination and enforcement of the state’s labor, licensing, and tax laws through the work of the Underground Economy Task Force
- Estimate the frequency of employee misclassification and underground economic activity among the Commonwealth’s industries through the undertaking of a research study
- Increase revenue recovery through enforcement by inspection, audit, and information-sharing
- Level the playing field for employers by publicizing Task Force enforcement successes that will serve as a deterrent to cutting corners on labor, licensing, and tax laws
Education and Outreach

The JTF will continue an education and outreach plan that involves the following multi-faceted approach:

1. Create educational material for workers and employers to bring awareness to the ongoing issues of the underground economy. Worker cards will have brief descriptions of signs of underground economy activity and how to report it. Business outreach will include a brochure focused on educating business owners of the adverse effects of contributing to the underground economy or misclassifying employees. The material will also have contact information to report fraudulent work practices.

2. Utilize its statewide advisory council to assist in educating workers and businesses, identify potential problem areas, and develop policy recommendations around specific legislative proposals.

3. Continue to enhance its web page with the goal of improving access to information about the underground economy and the work of the Joint Task Force.

4. Accept invitations from stakeholders to share information about the JTF, discuss best practices, opportunities, and challenges faced by employers, employees, regulators, and advocates.

Cross-Agency Training

The JTF partner agencies remain committed to a cross-agency education and training plan to ensure that our investigative agencies are familiar with various processes and enforcement authority. Cross-training ensures efficiency, coordination and encourages interagency referrals. During 2015, the JTF will make training opportunities available for partner agency investigators.

Expanding Additional Partnerships

The JTF has seen tremendous success as a result of compliance checks among our partner agencies. Monetary recoveries have increased dramatically as a result of cross-agency communication to increase compliance with multiple state agencies’ requirements. This coordinated review helps to level the playing field for businesses as they are being required to pay all outstanding UI Trust Fund contributions and have a valid workers’ compensation policy (if one is required) before being granted authorization to lawfully conduct a regulated activity. If a business chooses not to become compliant, it could potentially lose a license or forgo opportunities to bid on a state-funded project. Bringing additional partners into the JTF could mean additional revenue recovery to the Commonwealth and more businesses coming out of the shadows. Moreover, additional partners may be helpful to enforcement, as it is not uncommon for an unscrupulous business to have multiple compliance issues with multiple government agencies. The more avenues of enforcement available, the more likely we may be to curb illegal behaviors.

Multi-State and Federal Cooperation

Many JTF agencies and partners, such as DUA, DIA, DLS, DOR, AGO-FLD, and the IFB have strong, working relationships with federal authorities. The JTF is focused on building on these existing channels of cooperation and maximizing any potential assistance that can be provided in addressing the underground economy in Massachusetts. Also, the JTF has developed relationships with its counterparts in other states to share new ideas involving methods of cross-agency enforcement, and to open potential avenues for multi-state enforcement initiatives.
Appendix A: Executive Order 499

By His Excellency
DEVAL L. PATRICK
GOVERNOR
EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 499
Establishing a Joint Enforcement Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification

WHEREAS, the health of the Commonwealth’s economy, its workers, and its businesses is harmed by the existence of an illegal underground economy in which individuals and businesses conceal their activities from government licensing, regulatory, and taxing authorities;

WHEREAS, individuals and businesses that operate in the underground economy do so in violation of labor, employment, tax, insurance and occupational safety laws, by failing to pay required wages, carry workers’ compensation insurance, comply with health, safety and licensing requirements, or pay income taxes and payroll taxes that fund unemployment insurance, disability insurance, and Medicare and Social Security benefits;

WHEREAS, certain businesses also improperly classify their employees as “independent contractors” (referred to as “employee misclassification”) and hire undocumented workers to avoid compliance with labor, employment, tax, insurance and regulatory requirements;

WHEREAS, the underground economy and, in particular, the practice of employee misclassification: (1) exploits vulnerable workers and deprives them of legal benefits and protections; (2) gives unlawful businesses an unfair competitive advantage over lawful businesses by illegally driving down violators’ taxes, wages, and other overhead costs; (3) defrauds the government of substantial tax revenues; and (4) harms consumers who suffer at the hands of unlicensed businesses that fail to maintain minimum levels of skills and knowledge;

WHEREAS, a recent study based on audits of Massachusetts unemployment records for construction employers between 2002 and 2005 found that up to 14% of the employees covered by the audits were estimated to have been misclassified by employers;

WHEREAS, efforts to combat the underground economy and employee misclassification historically have been divided among various agencies, diminishing the timeliness, efficiency and effectiveness of such efforts; and

WHEREAS, the creation of joint task forces has proven to be an effective mechanism for enhancing interagency cooperation, information sharing, and the prosecution of violators;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Deval L. Patrick, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution, Part 2, c. 2, § I, Art. I, do hereby order as follows:

Section 1. There is hereby established the Joint Enforcement Task Force on the Underground Economy and Employee Misclassification (the “Task Force”).
Section 2. The Task Force shall consist of the following members or their designees: the Director of Labor, the Commissioner of Revenue, the Commissioner of the Department of Industrial Accidents, the Chief of the Attorney General’s Fair Labor Division, the Commissioner of the Division of Occupational Safety, the Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, the Director of the Division of Professional Licensure, the Director of Apprenticeship Training and the Director of the Department of Unemployment Assistance. The Director of Labor shall chair the Task Force.

Section 3. The Task Force shall coordinate joint efforts to combat the underground economy and employee misclassification, including efforts to: (a) foster compliance with the law by educating business owners and employees about applicable requirements; (b) conduct joint, targeted investigations and enforcement actions against violators; (c) protect the health, safety and benefit rights of workers; and (d) restore competitive equality for law-abiding businesses.

In fulfilling its mission, the Task Force shall:

a. Facilitate timely information sharing between and among Task Force members, including through the establishment of protocols by which participating agencies will advise or refer to other agencies matters of potential investigative interest;

b. Identify those industries and sectors where the underground economy and employee misclassification are most prevalent and target Task Force members’ investigative and enforcement resources against those sectors, including through the formation of joint investigative and enforcement teams;

c. Assess existing investigative and enforcement methods, both in Massachusetts and in other jurisdictions, and develop and recommend strategies to improve those methods;

d. Encourage businesses and individuals to identify violators by soliciting information from the public, facilitating the filing of complaints, and enhancing the available mechanisms by which workers can report suspected violations;

e. Solicit the cooperation and participation of district attorneys and other relevant enforcement agencies, including the Insurance Fraud Bureau, and establish procedures for referring cases to prosecuting authorities as appropriate;

f. Work cooperatively with employers, labor, and community groups to diminish the size of the underground economy and reduce the number of employee misclassifications by, among other means, disseminating educational materials regarding the applicable laws, including the legal distinctions between independent contractors and employees, and increasing public awareness of the harm caused by the underground economy and employee misclassification;

g. Work cooperatively with federal, commonwealth, and local social services agencies to provide assistance to vulnerable populations that have been exploited by the underground economy and employee misclassification, including but not limited to immigrant workers;

h. Identify potential regulatory or statutory changes that would strengthen enforcement efforts, including any changes needed to resolve existing legal ambiguities or inconsistencies, as well as potential legal procedures for facilitating individual enforcement efforts; and

i. Consult with representatives of business and organized labor, members of the General Court, community groups and other agencies concerning the activities of the Task Force and its members and ways of improving its effectiveness, including consideration of whether to establish an advisory panel under the secretary of labor and workforce development.

Section 4. The Task Force shall transmit an annual report to the Governor summarizing the Task Force’s activities during the preceding year. The report shall, without limitation: (a) describe the Task Force’s efforts and accomplishments during the year; (b) identify any administrative or legal barriers impeding the more effective operation of the Task Force, including any barriers to information sharing or joint action; (c) propose, after consultation with representatives of business and organized labor, members of the legislature and other agencies, appropriate administrative, legislative, or regulatory changes to strengthen the Task Force’s operations and enforcement efforts and reduce or eliminate any barriers to those efforts; and (d) identify successful preventative mechanisms for reducing the extent of the underground economy and employee misclassification, thereby reducing the need for greater enforcement. The Task Force also shall take appropriate steps to publicize its activities.

Section 5. To the extent permitted by law, every agency within the Executive Branch shall make all reasonable efforts to cooperate with the Task Force and to furnish such information and assistance as the Task Force reasonably deems necessary to accomplish its purposes.

Section 6. Nothing in this Executive Order shall be construed to require action inconsistent with any applicable state or federal law.

Section 7. This Executive Order shall continue in effect until amended, superseded, or revoked by subsequent Executive Order.

Given at the Executive Chamber in Boston this 12th day of March in the year of our Lord two thousand and eight and of the Independence of the United States, two hundred and thirty-two.

The council may create and appoint members to a subcommittee made up of members representing business, organized labor, not-for-profit organizations, government, the legislature and any political subdivision thereof including municipal governments, to solicit input.

(c) The council shall:

(1) facilitate timely information sharing among state agencies in order to advise or refer matters of potential investigative interest;

Department of Industrial Accidents (DIA)

The Department of Industrial Accidents administers the law related to the Massachusetts workers’ compensation system. This law balances the provision of prompt and fair compensation to workers with occupational injuries and illness arising out of and in the course of employment, with the needs of employers to manage workers’ compensation insurance costs. The Department also administers the Workers’ Compensation Trust Fund, which provides benefits to injured workers when their employer fails to properly insure or provide these benefits. DIA’s investigative unit works to ensure that businesses and industries are in compliance with the workers’ compensation statute. One enforcement tool employed by the DIA is the issuance of immediate stop work orders to violators, who are subject to fines and prosecution for failing to provide their employees with workers’ compensation benefits.

Employers pay quarterly contributions to the Massachusetts DUA. Protecting the integrity of the unemployment insurance program is a responsibility taken seriously by the DUA. Working with Joint Task Force partners, progress is being made in preventing, detecting, investigating, and prosecuting those who defraud or attempt to defraud the unemployment insurance system. This includes employers that evade paying their fair share of unemployment insurance costs by intentionally misclassifying their employees as independent contractors.

The Attorney General aims to set a level playing field for employers and employees throughout the State. The Attorney General's specific jurisdiction to enforce the Commonwealth’s wage and hour laws, both criminally and civilly, as well as its general jurisdiction to enforce criminal laws, including insurance and tax laws, larceny and embezzlement, allows it to take a holistic approach to prosecuting cases involving the underground economy. National Labor Relations Board (NLRB)

The National Labor Relations Board is the federal agency that enforces the National Labor Relations Act, a law that applies to most private sector employers. Federal law protects the right of employees to engage in or refrain from protected, concerted activities with other employees in dealing with their employers with respect to wage, benefits, and other terms and conditions of employment. The Agency is most commonly associated with the protection of union activity and enforcing the requirement that where employees have chosen to be represented by a union, that unions and employers engage in good faith collective-bargaining, but the protection of concerted employee action is not limited to union situations. The Act gives substantive legal protection for group employee action seeking to engage employers with respect to their wages, benefits, and other terms and conditions of employment; therefore, it provides important protections to employees engaged in self-help efforts with respect to their employment. Through its intake and public information activities, NLRB personnel frequently encounter individuals who have substantive rights protected by one or more member agencies of the JTF.

In addition to the requirements above, the types of confidential information referenced in Appendix A may be exchanged only subject to the corresponding confidentiality requirements included in Appendix A.

• For information security purposes, information (including paper-based documents and electronic information such as emails and CDs) exchanged pursuant to this Agreement remains the responsibility of the donor agency while in transit. The agencies agree to establish a communication protocol for notifying each agency’s designated contact person when information is sent to or received from that agency, including information on the form of the transfer and the media type and quantity (when appropriate). An agency expecting to receive information will notify the donor agency if the information is not received as of the next business date following the agreed upon delivery date.

• For information security purposes, after an agency receives information from the donor agency, the donor agency retains no responsibility for any security incidents, inadvertent disclosure, or the physical and information technology safeguards in place for protecting that information by the agency that received it.
• However, in the event that the agency receiving the information experiences a security incident or disaster that results in the suspected or confirmed inadvertent disclosure of the data exchanged pursuant to this Agreement, the agency experiencing the incident or disaster will send formal written notification to the donor agency’s designated contact person within 3 days after detection of the incident or disaster. The written notification will describe the security incident or disaster in detail including what data exchanged pursuant to this Agreement may have been inadvertently disclosed.

Subject to the foregoing constraints:

• The parties and their participating agencies agree to exchange information on laws and regulations of common concern to the one another, as requested and to the extent practicable and allowable by law and policy.

• The parties and their participating agencies will establish a methodology for exchanging investigative leads, complaints, and referrals of possible violations, to the extent feasible and allowable by law and policy.

The parties and their participating agencies will exchange information (statistical data) on incidence of violations in specific industries and geographic areas, as requested and to the extent practicable and allowable by law and policy.

Resolution of Disagreements

• Disputes arising under this Agreement will be resolved informally by discussions between parties’ Points of Contact, or other officials designated by a party.

Period of Agreement

• This Agreement becomes effective upon the signing by all signatories below, and will expire 3 years from the effective date. This Agreement may be modified in writing by mutual consent of all signatories or their designees. Any party or participating agency may withdraw from participation in this Agreement by giving thirty (30) days advance written notice prior to the date of intended withdrawal. Renewal of the Agreement may be accomplished by written agreement of all signatories or their designees.
