A Training for Public Workforce Development Professionals

By attending this one-day training, you will:

- consider WIOA and what it means for customers with disabilities;
- explore the full meaning of accessibility (it's more than just ramps);
- learn communication and etiquette tips from people who live it;
- examine stereotypes and the impact attitudes have on customers;
- review best practices to prepare customers around disclosure and accommodation issues;
- come to a full understanding of why businesses strive to hire people with disabilities;
- develop current business outreach strategies and messages to overcome employer objections;
- discover new ways business service reps and career advisors can work together on behalf of customers with disabilities.
